SPECIAL NOTE REGARDING FORWARD-LOOKING STATEMENTS

This annual report contains forward-looking statements that involve risks and uncertainties. These include statements about our expectations, plans, objectives, assumptions or future events. In some cases, you can identify forward-looking statements by terminology such as anticipate, estimate, plans, potential, projects, continuing, ongoing, expects, management believes, we believe, we intend and similar expressions. Forward-looking statements involve estimates, assumptions and uncertainties that could cause actual results to differ materially from those expressed for the reasons described in this annual report. You should not place undue reliance on these forward-looking statements.

You should be aware that our actual results could differ materially from those contained in the forward-looking statements due to a number of factors, such as but not limited to:

dependence upon certain customers

dependence on key personnel

competitive factors

the operation of our business

general economic conditions

You should also consider carefully the statements under Risk Factors and other sections of this annual report, which address additional factors that could cause our actual results to differ from those set forth in the forward-looking statements and could materially and adversely affect our business, operating results and financial condition. All subsequent written and oral forward-looking statements attributable to us or persons acting on our behalf are expressly qualified in their entirety by the applicable cautionary statements.

The forward-looking statements speak only as of the date on which they are made, and, except to the extent required by federal securities laws, we undertake no obligation to update any forward-looking statement to reflect events or circumstances after the date on which the statement is made or to reflect the occurrence of unanticipated events. In addition, we cannot assess the impact of each factor on our business or the extent to which any factor, or combination of factors, may cause actual results to differ materially from those contained in any forward-looking statements.

We may use data and industry forecasts in this annual report which we have obtained from internal surveys, market research, publicly available information and industry publications. Industry publications generally state that the information they provide has been obtained from sources believed to be reliable but that the accuracy and completeness of such information is not guaranteed. Similarly, we believe that the surveys and market research we or others have performed are reliable, but we have not independently verified this information.

Table of ContentsA. SELECTED FINANCIAL DATA.SELECTED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL DATA(US Dollars in thousands, except per share amounts)

The following selected consolidated statements of income data with respect to the years ended December 31, 2011, 2010 and 2009 and selected consolidated balance sheets data as of December 31, 2011 and 2010 have been derived from our audited consolidated financial statements included elsewhere in this annual report. The following selected consolidated statements of income data with respect to the years ended December 31, 2008 and 2007 and selected consolidated balance sheets data as of December 31, 2009, 2008 and 2007 have been derived from our audited consolidated financial statements not included in this annual report.

Subsequent to the filing of the annual report on Form 20-F for the year ended December 31, 2010, we identified errors in the consolidated financial statements for fiscal 2010. We evaluated these errors in relation to the current fiscal year, which is when they were corrected, as well as the period in which they originated. Management concluded that these errors are immaterial to the consolidated financial statements as a whole. In addition, we have corrected the classification of certain costs between costs of goods sold, selling, general and administrative expenses, and depreciation on the consolidated statement of income. Accordingly, reclassifications have been made on the selected consolidated statements of income data with respect to the periods presented below. Refer to note 2(ae) and 24 to the consolidated financial statements for details of these out-of-period adjustments and reclassifications. The following selected consolidated financial data should be read in conjunction with Operating and Financial Review and Prospects and the Consolidated Financial Statements and Notes included elsewhere in this annual report. Our historical results are not necessarily indicative of our results expected for any future periods.

C. REASONS FOR THE OFFER AND USE OF PROCEEDS.

D. RISK FACTORS.

We do not have any long-term contracts with our wholesale customers and, therefore, we cannot be certain that all of our wholesale sales will continue; if not, our wholesale revenues will likely decline.

We sell to a large number of wholesale customers in a variety of markets. Although we believe that we have maintained good and longstanding relationships with our principal wholesale customers, we do not have any long-term contracts with any of them, and they order only on a purchase order basis. The loss of a significant number of our principal wholesale customers or a significant reduction in their orders would have a materially adverse effect on our revenues.

We face significant competition from larger competitors in our wholesale and retail operations.

The making and distribution of jewelry is a highly competitive industry characterized by the diversity and sophistication of the products. We compete with major domestic and international companies with substantially greater financial, technical, marketing resources and personnel than us. There can be no assurance that other jewelry makers will not similarly develop low-cost, high-volume production capability or an even better process, providing greater competition for us and materially affecting our business prospects.

There are numerous factors relating to the operations of our business that could adversely affect our success and results.

As a maker and merchandiser of low-cost, high-quality gem-set jewelry, our existing and future operations are and will be influenced by several factors, including:

technological developments in the mass production of jewelry

our ability to meet the design and production requirements of our customers efficiently

the market acceptance of our ENZO jewelry and our customers' jewelry increases in expenses associated with continued sales growth

Table of Contents

our ability to control costs

our management's ability to evaluate the public's taste and new orders to target satisfactory profit margins

our capacity to develop and manage the introduction of new designed products

our ability to compete

Quality control is also essential to our operations since customers demand compliance with design and product specifications and consistency of production. We cannot assure that revenue growth will occur on a quarterly or annual basis.

Our production facilities and substantially all of our retail stores are located in China. Our results of operations and financial condition may, therefore, be influenced by the economic, political, legal and social conditions in China.

Since 1978, the Chinese government has been reforming, and is expected to continue to reform, China's economic and political systems. Such reforms have resulted in significant social progress. Other political, economic and social factors could also lead to further readjustment of the reform measures. This refinement and readjustment process may not always have a positive effect on our operations in China. At times, we may also be adversely affected by changes in policies of the Chinese government such as changes in laws and regulations or their interpretation, the introduction of additional measures to control inflation, changes in the rate or method of taxation and imposition of additional restrictions on currency conversion and remittances abroad.

Changes to PRC tax laws may adversely affect our financial condition and results of operations in the future.

The National People's Congress, the Chinese legislature, on March 16, 2007 passed a new enterprise income tax law, which became effective on January 1, 2008. The new law applies a uniform 25% enterprise income tax rate (EIT) to both foreign invested enterprises and domestic enterprises, except that enterprises that were approved to be established prior to March 16, 2007 may continue to enjoy the applicable preferential tax treatments until December 31, 2012. Eligible companies are required to transition to the new EIT rate over a five-year period starting January 1, 2008.

Under the New EIT Law, an enterprise established outside of China with de facto management bodies within China is deemed to be considered as a resident enterprise, meaning that it can be treated in a manner similar to a Chinese enterprise for enterprise income tax purposes. The implementing rules of the New EIT Law define de facto management as substantial and overall management and control over the production and operations, personnel, accounting, and properties of the enterprise. Currently, no official interpretation or application of this new resident enterprise classification is available and, therefore, it is unclear how tax authorities will determine tax residency based on the facts of each case.

If the PRC tax authorities determine that our British Virgin Islands holding company is a resident enterprise for PRC enterprise income tax purposes, a number of unfavorable PRC tax consequences could follow. First, we may be subject to enterprise income tax at a rate of 25% on our worldwide taxable income as well as PRC enterprise income tax reporting obligations. In our case, this would mean that non-PRC source income would be subject to PRC enterprise income tax at a rate of 25%, in comparison to no taxation in the British Virgin Islands. Second, under the New EIT Law and its implementing rules dividends paid to us from our PRC subsidiaries would be subject to a 10% withholding income tax. Finally, if our British Virgin Islands holding company is deemed to be a PRC tax resident enterprise, a 10% withholding tax shall be imposed on dividends we pay to our non-PRC shareholders and with respect to gains derived from our non-PRC shareholders transferring our shares.

Our products are currently made at our production facilities located in Shenzhen, China. However, our insurance may not adequately cover any losses due to fire, casualty or theft.

We have obtained fire, casualty and theft insurance covering our stock in trade, goods and merchandise, furniture and equipment and production facilities in China. The proceeds of such insurance may not be sufficient to cover material damage to, or the loss of, our production facilities due to fire, severe weather, flood or other cause, and such damage or loss would have a material adverse effect on our financial condition, business and prospects. Consistent with the customary practice among enterprises in China and due to the cost in relation to the benefit, we do not carry any business interruption insurance in China.

Sales of our jewelry at both the retail and wholesale levels are seasonally sensitive and are generally strongest during the quarter ending December 31 of each year due to the importance of the holiday selling season.

Our retail sales are typically seasonally greater in the fourth quarter and the first quarter of each year due to high spending of consumers during the Christmas and Chinese New Year holidays. Our wholesale sales are typically greater in the third and fourth quarters of each year in anticipation of the Christmas holidays.

The success of our retail store expansion program in China is dependent upon numerous factors over which we have limited control.

The future success of our ENZO retail stores in China is partially dependent upon general economic conditions in China, competitive developments within the retail jewelry sector in China and consumer attitudes, including changes in consumer preferences for certain jewelry styles and materials. In addition, our retail expansion program is also dependent upon a number of factors relating to our stores, including the availability of property for lease, the location of the mall or shopping centre, the availability of desirable locations within a mall, the terms of leases, our relationship with major landlords, and the design and maintenance of our stores.

We rely on short-term financing from banks for our daily operation.

We rely on short-term borrowings as part of our financing needs. If we fail to achieve timely rollover, extension or refinancing of our short-term debt, we may be unable to meet our obligations in connection with debt service, accounts payable and/or other liabilities when they become due and payable. In addition, we may be exposed to changes in interest rates. If interest rates increase substantially, our results of operations could be adversely affected.

Table of Contents

Certain of our banking facilities that offer short-term borrowings are collateralized by properties owned by our Chairman, Yu Chuan Yih, and by his personal guarantee. If Mr. Yih withdraws the properties or his personal guarantee, the banking facilities may no longer remain available for use by us. In that event, our daily operations would be adversely affected.

Our banking facilities are collateralized by available-for-sale securities, leasehold land and buildings, restricted cash deposits, factored receivables, and personal guarantees of and properties owned by a director.

The material provisions of indentures relating to our various banking facility agreements contain, among others, covenants pertaining to maintenance of the tangible net worth of LJI and one of its subsidiaries amounting to US$25,000,000 and US$4,487,000 respectively, and certain financial ratios related to debts of this subsidiary. Such financial ratios include the gearing ratio, determined as the ratio of total interest bearing debt to tangible net worth plus non-redeemable preference shares and minority interest as per the agreement; and debt service coverage, determined as earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation and amortization (EBITDA) to principal and interest repayment for ensuring 12 months as per the agreement. In the event of default, the bank would at its discretion cancel the facilities and demand immediate repayment of all principal, interest, fees and other amount outstanding.

At December 31, 2011, one of our loan facilities in the amount of US$14,610,000, which relates to amounts in bank overdrafts, notes payables and letter of credit, had financial covenant violations related to exceeding financial ratios limiting the amount of debt held by a subsidiary. The violations remain in default and we continue negotiations with its lender to waive the default. We have classified the loan to current liabilities.

Our holding company structure creates restrictions on the payment of dividends.

We have no direct business operations, other than the ownership of our subsidiaries, of which we have control over their operating policies including, among others, payment of dividends. While we have no current intention of paying dividends, should we, as a holding company, decide in the future to do so, our ability to pay dividends and meet other obligations depends upon the receipt of dividends or other payments from our operating subsidiaries and other holdings and investments. In addition, our operating subsidiaries are subject to restrictions on their ability to make distributions to us, including as a result of restrictive covenants and minimum net worth requirements in loan agreements, restrictions on the conversion of local currency into US dollars or other hard currency and other regulatory restrictions.

As a foreign private issuer, we are not subject to certain rules promulgated by Nasdaq that other Nasdaq-listed issuers are required to comply with.

Our shares of common stock are currently listed on the Nasdaq Global Market (Nasdaq) and, for so long as our securities continue to be listed, we will remain subject to the rules and regulations established by Nasdaq applicable to listed companies. As permitted under Nasdaq rules applicable to foreign private issuers, we have determined not to comply with the following Nasdaq rules:

our independent directors do not hold regularly scheduled meetings in executive session

the compensation of our executive officers is not determined by an independent committee of the board or by the independent members of the board of directors, and our CEO may be present and participate in the deliberations concerning his compensation related party transactions are not required to be reviewed or approved by our audit committee or other independent body of the board of directors

we are not required to solicit shareholder approval of stock plans, including those in which our officers or directors may participate; stock issuances that will result in a change in control; the issuance of our stock in related party transactions or other transactions in which we may issue 20% or more of our outstanding shares; or, below market issuances of 20% or more of our outstanding shares to any person

We may in the future determine to voluntarily comply with one or more of the foregoing provisions.

It may be difficult to serve us with legal process or enforce judgments against us or our management.

We are a British Virgin Islands holding company, and substantially all of our assets are located in China and Hong Kong. In addition, all but one of our directors and officers are non-residents of the United States, and all or substantial portions of the assets of such non-residents are located outside the United States. As a result, it may not be possible to effect service of process within the United States upon such persons. Moreover, there is doubt as to whether the courts of the British Virgin Islands, China or Hong Kong would enforce:

judgments of United States courts against us, our directors or our officers based on the civil liability provisions of the securities laws of the United States or any state; or in original actions brought in the British Virgin Islands, China or Hong Kong, liabilities against us or non-residents based upon the securities laws of the United States or any state.

Some information about us may be unavailable due to exemptions under the Exchange Act for a foreign private issuer.

We are a foreign private issuer within the meaning of the rules under the Exchange Act. As such, we are exempt from certain provisions applicable to United States domestic public companies, including:

the rules under the Exchange Act requiring the filing with the Securities and Exchange Commission of quarterly reports on Form 10-Q or current reports on Form 8-K

the provisions of Regulation FD aimed at preventing issuers from making selective disclosures of material information the sections of the Exchange Act regulating the solicitation of proxies, consents or authorizations applicable to a security registered under the Exchange Act

the sections of the Exchange Act requiring insiders to file public reports of their stock ownership and trading activities and establishing insider liability for profits realized from any short-swing trading transaction

Because of these exemptions, investors are not provided with the same information which is generally available about domestic public companies organized in the United States.

Since we are a British Virgin Islands company, the rights of our shareholders may be more limited than those of shareholders of a company organized in the United States.

Under the laws of most jurisdictions in the United States, majority and controlling shareholders generally have certain fiduciary responsibilities to the minority shareholders. Shareholder action must be taken in good faith, and actions by controlling shareholders which are obviously unreasonable may be declared null and void. British Virgin Islands law protecting the interests of minority shareholders may not be as protective in all circumstances as the laws protecting minority shareholders in US jurisdictions. In addition, the circumstances in which a shareholder of a BVI company may sue the company derivatively, and the procedures and defenses that may be available to the company, may result in the rights of shareholders of a BVI company being more limited than those of shareholders of a company organized in the US.

Furthermore, our directors have the power to take certain actions without shareholder approval which would require shareholder approval under the laws of most US jurisdictions. The directors of a BVI corporation, subject in certain cases to court approval but without shareholder approval, may implement a reorganization, merger or consolidation, the sale of any assets, property, part of the business, or securities of the corporation. Our ability to amend our Memorandum of Association and Articles of Association without shareholder approval could have the effect of delaying, deterring or preventing a change in our control without any further action by the shareholders, including a tender offer to purchase our common stock at a premium over then current market prices.

We may need to raise capital in the future. Such funds may not be available on acceptable terms or at all, and, without additional funds, we may not be able to expand our retail business in China.

We expect to expend significant resources to expand our retail business in China. We will require substantial funds in order to finance our retail distribution and fund operating expenses. Without these funds, we may not be able to meet our goals. We may seek additional funding through equity or debt financing or through collaborative arrangements with strategic partners.

You should also be aware that in the future:

We cannot be certain that additional capital will be available on favorable terms, if at all;

Table of Contents

Any available additional financing may not be adequate to meet our goals; and

Any equity financing would result in dilution to stockholders.

If we cannot raise additional funds when needed and on acceptable terms, we may not be able to effectively execute our growth strategy (including expanding the number of our retail stores in China), take advantage of future opportunities, or respond to competitive pressures or unanticipated requirements.

We are dependent on certain key personnel and the loss of these key personnel could have a material adverse effect on our business, financial condition and results of operations.

Our success is, to a certain extent, attributable to the management, sales and marketing, and operational and technical expertise of certain key personnel. Each of our named executive officers, including our Chief Executive Officer, Mr. Yu Chuan Yih, performs key functions in the operation of our business. There can be no assurance that we will be able to retain these officers or that such personnel may not receive and/or accept competing offers of employment. The loss of a significant number of these employees could have a material adverse effect upon our business, financial condition, and results of operations.

The audit report included in this annual report is prepared by auditors who are not inspected by the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board and, as such, you are deprived of the benefits of such inspection.

Our current independent registered public accounting firm that issues the audit reports included in our annual reports filed with the US Securities and Exchange Commission, as auditors of companies that are traded publicly in the United States and a firm registered with the US Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (United States) (the PCAOB), is required by the laws of the United States to undergo regular inspections by the PCAOB to assess its compliance with the laws of the United States and professional standards. Because our auditors are located in the Peoples Republic of China, a jurisdiction where the PCAOB is currently unable to conduct inspections without the approval of the Chinese authorities, our auditors are not currently inspected by the PCAOB.

Inspections of other firms that the PCAOB has conducted outside China have identified deficiencies in those firms' audit procedures and quality control procedures, which may be addressed as part of the inspection process to improve future audit quality. This lack of PCAOB inspections in China prevents the PCAOB from regularly evaluating our auditor's audits and its quality control procedures. As a result, investors may be deprived of the benefits of PCAOB inspections.

The inability of the PCAOB to conduct inspections of auditors in China makes it more difficult to evaluate the effectiveness of our auditor's audit procedures or quality control procedures as compared to auditors outside of China that are subject to PCAOB inspections. Investors may lose confidence in our reported financial information and procedures and the quality of our financial statements.

Risks Related to Doing Business in the People's Republic of China

A substantial portion of our retail business operations and the manufacturing of our merchandises are conducted entirely in the People's Republic of China (PRC). Because China's economy and its laws, regulations and policies are different from those typically found in Western countries and are continually changing, we face risks, including those summarized below.

We are subject to comprehensive regulation by the PRC legal system, which is uncertain. As a result, it may limit the legal protections available to you and us and we may not now be, or remain in the future, in compliance with PRC laws and regulations.

Our subsidiaries that own our production facilities and retail stores in China are incorporated under and are governed by the laws of the PRC; a significant portion of our operations are conducted in the PRC; and many of our suppliers are located in the PRC. The PRC government exercises substantial control over virtually every sector of the PRC economy, including the production, distribution and sale of our merchandises. We are required to obtain several memberships and approval certificates from these government agencies in order to continue to conduct our business. We may be required to renew such memberships and to obtain approval certificates periodically. In order to operate under PRC law, our PRC subsidiaries require valid licenses, certificates and permits, which must be renewed from time to time. If we were to fail to obtain the necessary renewals for any reason, including sudden or unexplained changes in local regulatory practice, we could be required to shut down all or part of our operations temporarily or permanently.

The legal and judicial systems in the PRC are still rudimentary. The laws governing our business operations are sometimes vague and uncertain and enforcement of existing laws is inconsistent. Thus, we can offer no assurance that we are, or will remain, in compliance with PRC laws and regulations.

Anti-inflation measures could harm the economy generally and could harm our business.

The PRC government exercises significant control over the PRC economy. In recent years, the PRC government has instituted measures to curb the risk of inflation. These measures have included monitoring the exchange rate of the RMB, restrictions on the availability of domestic credit, and limited re-centralization of the approval process for some international transactions. These measures may not succeed in controlling inflation, or they may slow the economy below a healthy growth rate and lead to economic stagnation or recession; in the worst-case scenario, the measures could slow the economy without curbing inflation, causing stagflation. The PRC government could adopt additional measures to further combat inflation, including the establishment of price freezes or moratoriums on certain projects or transactions. Such measures could harm the economy generally and hurt our business by limiting the income of our customers available to purchase our merchandise, by forcing us to lower our profit margins, and by limiting our ability to obtain credit or other financing to pursue our expansion plan or maintain our business.

Fluctuations in exchange rates may have a material adverse effect on your investment.

The value of the Renminbi against the U.S. dollar and other currencies may fluctuate and is affected by, among other things, changes in political and economic conditions in China and elsewhere in the world. On July 21, 2005, the PRC government changed its decade-old policy of pegging the value of the Renminbi to the U.S. dollar. Under this policy, the Renminbi was permitted to fluctuate within a narrow and managed band against a basket of certain foreign currencies. Since then, Renminbi started to appreciate against U.S. dollar and reached one of its historical high point in July 2008. Thereafter, the Renminbi was traded within a narrow band against the U.S. dollar, remaining within 1% of its July 2008 high point. In June 2010, the PRC government announced that its plan to increase the flexibility of Renminbi exchange rate. Since that time, the Renminbi has gradually appreciated against the U.S. dollar. There remains significant international pressure on the PRC government to adopt a more flexible currency policy, which could result in greater fluctuation of the Renminbi against the U.S. dollar.

All of our net revenues from the retail segment and most of our expenses are denominated in Renminbi. Any significant revaluation of Renminbi may materially and adversely affect our revenues, earnings and financial position, and the value of, and any dividends payable on, our shares in U.S. dollars. For example, an appreciation of Renminbi against the U.S. dollar would reduce the amount of Renminbi we would receive if we need to convert U.S. dollars into Renminbi. Conversely, a significant depreciation of the Renminbi against the U.S. dollar may significantly reduce the U.S. dollar equivalent of our earnings, which in turn could adversely affect the price of our shares.

Limited hedging transactions are available in China to reduce our exposure to exchange rate fluctuations. We have entered into some hedging transactions to hedge our exposure to the risks relating to fluctuations in exchange rates in the past. While we may decide to enter into hedging transactions in the future, the availability and effectiveness of these hedges may be limited, and we may not be able to successfully hedge our exposure at all.

B. BUSINESS OVERVIEW

We are a vertically integrated jewelry company that designs, brands, markets, distributes and retails a complete range of fine jewelry. The Company specializes in colored gemstone jewelry and also offers high-end jewelry set in yellow gold, white gold or sterling silver, as well as diamond. Our product lines incorporate all major categories including earrings, necklaces, pendants, rings and bracelets.

Mine-to-customer business model

Our business is built based on a mine-to-customer model. The Company directly sources the colored gemstones from a variety of mines and suppliers, and diamonds and precious metals from overseas and local suppliers and dealers. We then undertake the stone cutting and production process at our own manufacturing plant based on the designs of our in-house design team. Our jewelry is then sold via two platforms: our ENZO retail stores and wholesale clients.

We believe that our vertically-integrated mine-to-customer structure provides significant advantages over our competition in both our retail and wholesale businesses. All benefits and cost-savings from value-added processes are captured internally, rather than shared with third parties. This results in highly competitive pricing for our customers in wholesale, and enhanced profits for our retail business.

In addition, this allows us to provide reliable, low cost supply with large quantities of production of our wholesale business to meet the demand of large retailers. For the retail business, our control over the entire supply chain reinforces ENZO's commitment to providing excellent quality and service, ensuring that every piece of jewelry is perfectly designed and made to meet world-class standards.

Our retail sales are typically seasonally greater in the fourth quarter and the first quarter of each year due to high spending of consumers during the Christmas and Chinese New Year holidays. Our wholesale sales are typically greater in the third and fourth quarters of each year in anticipation of the Christmas holidays.

Sourcing & Raw Material Supplies

We purchase imported colored gemstones from a variety of sources, including South America, Africa, and China. South America is our major source of ametrine, amethyst, aquamarine, imperial topaz, tourmaline and white topaz. Africa is our main source of tanzanite, mandarin garnet, aquamarine and topaz. We also purchase imported aquamarine, peridot and topaz from China.

Our diamonds are sourced mainly from suppliers in India and Africa. We believe that we have good relationships with our suppliers, most of whom have supplied us with raw materials for many years.

We maintain our supply of inventory at our warehouse. The amount of inventory of a particular gemstone determines the extent and size of our marketing program for that product. We purchase our gemstones and diamonds in advance and in anticipation of orders resulting from our marketing requirements.

We purchase our gold from the gold exchange, banks, gold refiners and commodity dealers who supply substantially all of our gold requests, which we believe is sufficient to meet our requirements for both retail and wholesale businesses. Our purchase includes recycled gold for environmental friendly purposes.

Table of Contents

We purchase our gold requirements within a reasonable period after each significant purchase order is received.

We source supplies and raw materials from a variety of suppliers, and we do not believe the loss of any of our suppliers would have a material adverse effect on our business. Alternative sources of supply for raw materials for production of jewelry are readily available.

Design and Product Development

Our consummate range of jewelry is the creation of a group of internationally trained designers who work in our office in Shenzhen, China. Our Creative /Design Director, the principal member of our team, is a renowned world-class designer who drives the team forward. Together, our designers attend trade fairs worldwide in order to gather a variety of different inspirations and monitor the latest product trends.

We provide our customers with a broad selection of exquisite, high-quality gem-set products that are inspired by a classic Italian style, incorporating traditional designs with a modern air. Our jewelry offerings revolve around the relationship between color, fabric and current fashion trends, which are projected over two years. We market our products as being inspired by an elegant quality of life.

We create trend-setting styles that are enjoyed by our various clients worldwide. We are also well trained to identify trends emerging in the international markets and create quality, bespoke items that meet our domestic customers' preference. All of our designs and merchandising strategies are proprietary. We believe the exclusive and innovative concepts that we create offer important brand potential.

Production Process

We produce our jewelry at our facilities in Shenzhen, China. Our production processes combine vertical integration, modern technology, mechanization and craftsmanship to create contemporary and fashionable jewelry. Our production operations essentially involve:

Cutting and polishing colored gemstones

Combining pure gold or sterling silver with gemstones or diamonds to produce jewelry

Finishing operations such as cleaning and polishing, resulting in high quality finished jewelry

Our gemstone craftsmen are trained to ensure that only the highest levels of cutting and polishing quality are achieved. The professional skills possessed by our cutters are applied to a wide variety of shapes and sizes, maximizing the yield and value of the gemstone material. By performing the value-added processes of cutting and polishing of colored gemstones internally, we maximize quality and improve our profitability. We specialize in a wide range of popular and exotic colored gemstones ranging from amethyst, aquamarine and peridot to tanzanite and tourmaline.

Table of Contents

We also strive to commit to consistently high standards and continual progress towards success through improved customer satisfaction and staff motivation.

As a fully vertically integrated company, we obtained the Quality Management System ISO 9001:2008 Certificates on June 30, 2008.

Production Capability

We have established a sophisticated facility in China that performs stone cutting, polishing and jewelry production. The facility is located in the city of Shenzhen in Guangdong Province, China. The production facility has been operating for 13 years and has more than 150,000 square feet of production space. We currently employ approximately 1,300 skilled gemstone cutters and production personnel excluding managerial, sales and marketing staff, and turned out approximately 1.6 million pieces of finished fine jewelry during the fiscal year ended December 31, 2011.

Our production facilities are currently utilized for one shift per day but are capable of being expanded to accommodate three shifts per day as necessary.

Retail - ENZO

We conduct our retail jewelry business through the ENZO brand in the Asia Pacific region, with a primary focus in the China market, which we regard as having one of the largest and fastest growing consumer demands for luxury items.

With a unique brand position targeting the affordable luxury segment, ENZO's jewelry, designed to appeal to the rising upper-middle class in China, are offered in a wide range of collections for both colored gemstones and diamonds to capture different taste preferences.

Established at the end of 2004, ENZO has considerably grown its self-managed, nation-wide retail chain, leveraging on the rapid growth of China's retail jewelry market. It has also become a conspicuous luxury jewelry brand in the China market. As a market leader in luxury colored gemstone jewelry, ENZO enjoys a uniquely popular status among jewelry lovers and collectors. While the Company has its heritage in its wholesale business, we envision China's untapped retail market as the key driver of long-term growth.

Network and Number of Stores

Since its inaugural opening at the end of 2004, ENZO has grown to a national chain with a network of 202 self-managed stores in 52 cities on December 31, 2011. In 2011, ENZO added 69 new stores, expanding the store count by 52%.

ENZO has concentrated more stores in tier one and tier two cities in the PRC as it adopts a policy to map its sales points in line with its affordable luxury position, and as a result operating more stores in higher income cities. As of December 31, 2010 and 2011, the geographical distribution of ENZO stores was as follows:

Tier 1 cities : 43 (2010); 61 (2011)

Tier 2 cities : 54 (2010); 79 (2011)

Tier 3 cities : 36 (2010); 62 (2011)

Brand, Sales & Marketing

ENZO has successfully combined its product, sales and marketing programs that align with the strategic direction of reinforcing the brand to become one of the most recognized foreign jewelry brands in China. ENZO's focused brand building and marketing strategy emphasizes on differentiating itself from the many mass market local and international competitors. In 2011, ENZO was again ranked among the top five most desired foreign jewelry brand in China by CBN Weekly, a leading national media outlet in China. We believe this is the result of our continuous marketing programs that built a unique image, distinct identity and strong brand recognition for ENZO.

We pursue our brand-building, sales and marketing strategy through a number of initiatives, including:

Continuous macro marketing and PR programs to deliver the brand messages, through targeted media placements, outdoor advertising spaces, and MTR advertisements

Localized marketing programs to fit local markets in different cities. Trunk shows and workshops are arranged for building up a close relationship with the media and customers

Participation in jewelry shows in 2011, ENZO had a high-profile presence at the June and September Jewelry Fair in Hong Kong

Seasonal promotional programs based on festival seasons

Collaboration with malls in organizing various localized promotional programs

ENZO's jewelry is designed by an international design team and all of the design and merchandising strategies are proprietary. We believe these exclusive and innovative concepts offer better brand potential.

Competition

There are many Hong Kong, local and foreign jewelry companies in the China retail jewelry market. These competitors have product types, price ranges, market segments, target customers, sizes, histories, strategies and backgrounds similar to or different from ENZO. Hong Kong based competitors include Hong Kong listed chain store operators such as Chow Tai Fook, Chow Sang Sang, Tse Sui Luen and Luk Fook; local Chinese retail competitors include Laofengxiang, Chaohongji, and Laomiao; and foreign competitors include Tiffany, Cartier and Bvlgari.

We believe we distinguish ourselves from the competition with our differentiated jewelry, modern and fashionable designs and a niche on colored gemstone. Our focus on the affordable luxury segment may also provide differentiation from the competition.

Sales & Marketing

Our merchandising strategy aims to provide an array of unique and differentiated products that stem from our vertically integrated production process, enhanced by favorable pricing. We make considerable efforts to design and manufacture items which are markedly different from those of our competitors. We continue to devote our efforts towards brand development and utilizing innovative marketing concepts to enhance the salability of our products. Recognizing that retailers favor certain price points, as part of our product development strategy, we strive to align our wholesale prices to match the retailers' target value in order to satisfy this demand.

Competition

The industry is highly competitive. Our competitors include domestic and foreign jewelry manufacturers, wholesalers and importers who may operate on a national, regional, or local scale. Our competitive strategy is to provide competitively priced, high-quality products to the high-volume retail jewelry market. We believe that we have positioned ourselves as a low-cost producer without compromising our quality. Our ability to conceive, design and develop products consistent with the requirements of each retail distribution channel represents a significant advantage among our peers. We believe that few competitors have the capacity and production skills to be effective players, and our vertically integrated production capabilities distinguish us from most of our competitors and enable us to produce aggressively priced and high quality products.

Growth Strategy

We adopt a number of strategies to further grow the wholesale business:

Increase market share of moderately priced, high-quality gem-set colored and precious jewelry by capitalizing on our vertically integrated production process to produce high-end precious stone jewelry, in addition to high volume, high-quality colored products

Further deepen our existing customer relationships with our expanded service offering

Expand into new distribution channels and expand customer base

Explore investment opportunities from new supply sources, including and not limiting to gemstone mines, gemstone suppliers or distributors to strengthen the steady and reliable supply of raw materials

Capital Expenditures

In 2011, and the two preceding years, we made the following significant capital expenditures:

we invested approximately $8,754,000 on capital expenditures for ENZO retail store openings during the fiscal year ended December 31, 2011

we invested approximately $2,650,000 on capital expenditures for ENZO retail store openings during the fiscal year ended December 31, 2010

we invested approximately $1,415,000 on capital expenditures for ENZO retail store openings during the fiscal year ended December 31, 2009

ITEM 5. OPERATING AND FINANCIAL REVIEW AND PROSPECTS

The following discussion and analysis should be read in conjunction with our financial statements and notes to the financial statements appearing elsewhere in this Form 20-F. See Special Note Regarding Forward-Looking Statements.

For the fiscal year ended December 31, 2011, we reported revenues totaling $182.1 million, up 30% from $140.5 million in 2010. The increase was due to a 43% increase in sales of LJI's retail operation to $112.8 million from $78.9 million a year earlier. The wholesale operation also reported an increase of revenue of 12% from $61.7 million a year earlier to $69.4 million.

Despite the increase in total revenue, the operating income and the net income both decreased because of the loss incurred by our wholesale operation during the year ended December 31, 2011. Operating income in 2011 was $9.6 million, down 32% from $14.3 million in 2010. Net income in 2011 was $10.1 million, down 22% from $13 million in 2010. While the retail operation continues to report profitable operating results for 2011, the wholesale operation reported loss mainly because of some expenses of infrequent nature incurred during 2011.

The ENZO retail chain in China has increased its store numbers by 69 to a total of 202 as of December 31, 2011 from a total of 133 as of December 31, 2010, achieving our previous announced expansion plan of having 200 ENZO stores by the end of 2011. As we increased our store numbers and entered into new cities, we also stepped up our advertising and marketing expenditures in order to further improve our brand awareness and to better prepare for future growth. As a result, there was no significant increase in operating income which was $11.9 million for 2011 as compared to $11.6 million for 2010, up by 3%. The net income for retail operation has increased to $13.5 million for 2011 from $10 million for 2010, up by 35% mainly because of the change in fair value of warrants and options liabilities of $1.9 million related to the preferred shares and warrants issued in 2011 and the increased in exchange gain of $0.8 million from last year.

As for the wholesale operation, despite the increase in revenue, we incurred an operating loss of $0.8 million and a net loss of $1.9 million in 2011 as compared to an operating income of $4.5 million and a net income of $4.8 million in 2010 respectively. The net income of $4.8 million in 2010 included the sale of a property held for lease of $1.6 million. The adverse turn around of operating results for 2011 were largely due to the restructuring of our factories which resulted in large amount of severance costs provided in the amount of $2.1 million, and our assessment of impairment loss of $2.3 million on certain plants and equipment and both costs are not expected to be recurring in the near future.

The revenue mix of the two streams of business of retail and wholesale were roughly in the ratio of 62% and 38% for the year ended December 31, 2011 as compared to a ratio of 56% and 44% for the year ended December 31, 2010 respectively. As the growth rate for our retail revenue is expected to continue to exceed the growth rate for our wholesale revenue, our retail operation is expected to continue to contribute a more significant part in our future growth strategies.

ENZO's 202 stores are located in 52 cities throughout China including Hong Kong and Macau. We own and manage all our stores in that we do not have any franchising arrangement with any parties. Most of our stores operate in department stores and shopping malls where daily revenue are first collected by the department stores or shopping mall and then reimbursed to the company on a monthly basis. This arrangement helps with consumer traffic and also reduces the security risk of cash management. We will continue to expand ENZO's store coverage in accordance with these policies of owning all our future stores and having most of the future stores in department stores or shopping malls.

It is possible that the European economic turmoil may slow down the growth rate of luxury goods demand in China's retail market and/or adversely affect the economic recovery of the US market. However, we are conservatively optimistic that we can continue to drive revenue growth in both our retail and wholesale operation in the coming year and hopefully with the relative growth in net income.

Critical Accounting Policies and Estimates

The preparation of our consolidated financial statements requires us to make estimates and judgments that affect the reported amounts of our assets, liabilities, revenues and expenses. These estimates are based on our historical experience and on various other assumptions that we believe to be reasonable. Estimates are evaluated on an ongoing basis, but actual results may differ from these estimates.

Critical accounting policies are those that, in management's view, are most important in the portrayal of our financial condition and results of operations. We believe that the following accounting policies involve a higher degree of judgment and complexity in their application and require us to make significant accounting estimates. The following descriptions of critical accounting policies, judgments and estimates should be read in conjunction with our consolidated financial statements and other disclosures included in this annual report.

Income taxes and uncertain tax positions. Income taxes are accounted for under the asset and liability method. Deferred tax assets and liabilities are recognized for the future tax consequences attributable to differences between the financial statement carrying amounts of existing assets and liabilities and their respective tax bases and operating loss and tax credit carry forwards. Deferred tax assets and liabilities are measured using enacted tax rates expected to apply to taxable income in the years in which those temporary differences are expected to be recovered or settled. The effect on deferred tax assets and liabilities of a change in tax rates is recognized in income in the period that includes the enactment date. We record a valuation allowance against deferred tax assets that it determines to be more-likely-than-not that some portion or all of the deferred tax assets will not be realized.

We only recognize tax benefits related to uncertain tax positions when such positions are more likely than not of being sustained upon examination. For such positions, the amount of tax benefit that we recognize is the largest amount of tax benefit that is more than fifty percent likely of being sustained upon the ultimate settlement of such uncertain position. We record interest and penalties as a component of income tax expense.

As of December 31, 2011 and 2010, we have not provided for income taxes on the undistributed earnings of foreign subsidiaries since we consider such earnings of to be indefinitely reinvested. The amount of cash held by entities where earnings are considered to be permanently reinvested was $10 million and $3 million as of December 31, 2011 and 2010 respectively. If in the future we decide to repatriate such foreign earnings, we would incur incremental income tax. However, our intent is to keep these funds indefinitely reinvested and our current plans do not demonstrate a need to repatriate funds to satisfy domestic liquidity needs arising in the ordinary course of business, including liquidity needs associated with our domestic debt service requirements.

Collectability of Accounts Receivable. Our general credit terms range from 30 days to 90 days for our wholesale customers. The receivables related to our retail business are primarily reimbursements from mall operators in the PRC where our retail shops are located, such mall operators will collect the sales proceeds from our customers on our behalf upon purchases with remittance term ranges from 30 days to 60 days. Our management has a credit policy in place and the exposure to credit risk is monitored on an ongoing basis. Credit evaluations are performed on all customers requiring credit over a certain amount. Our international sales are settled via letters of credit or open accounts. For export sales on open accounts, we purchased trade credit insurance to cover the risk of collectability, the insured percentage is 85% on the invoiced amount to customers. Past due balances over 120 days and over a specified amount are reviewed individually for collectability.

We make specific allowance for doubtful accounts based on our best estimate of the amount of losses that could result from the inability or intention of our existing customers not to make the required payments. We generally review the allowance by taking into account factors such as historical experience, age of the accounts receivable balances and economic conditions that may affect a customer's ability to pay.

Goodwill Impairment. Goodwill is not amortized, but instead is tested for impairment at the reporting unit level at least on an annual basis at the balance sheet date or more frequently if certain indicators arise that would more likely than not reduce the fair value of a reporting unit below its carrying amount. Goodwill impairment is tested using a two-step approach. The first step compares the fair value of each reporting unit to its carrying amount, including goodwill. If the fair value of the reporting unit exceeds its carrying amount, goodwill is not considered to be impaired and the second step is not required. If the carrying amount of a reporting unit exceeds its fair value, the second step compares the implied fair value of goodwill to the carrying value of the reporting unit's goodwill. The implied fair value of goodwill is determined in the same manner to accounting for a business combination with allocation of the assessed fair value to all of the assets and liabilities of that reporting unit. The excess of the fair value of the reporting unit over the amounts assigned to the assets and liabilities is the implied fair value of goodwill. We performed our annual impairment review of goodwill on December 31st of each year.

We have determined that iBBC Inc., a subsidiary of the Company in the US, is the reporting unit for goodwill impairment testing. The fair value of iBBC Inc. is determined based on the discounted expected cash flow method.

Table of Contents

The significant assumptions used in the discounted cash flow model are:

Five-year discounted cash flow is projected. Basic assumptions in the cash flow projection include, among others, an estimated 0% for 2012 and 2% annual growth in turnover in the coming 4 years with reference to the unanticipated growth over 300% in 2011 which we believed it might not be a substantial growth rate in future, hence we kept the growth rate at minimal level. We cannot estimate any projection beyond 5 years with reasonable accuracy, since the business environment is rapidly changing;

The present value of the future free cash flows is calculated using the calculated weighted average cost of capital (WACC) of 9.11% to determine the discrete and terminal values;

The calculation of WACC uses a capital asset pricing model (CAPM) based on a combination of the equity risk premium and the cost of debts.

The use of discounted cash flow methodology requires significant judgments including estimation of future revenues and costs, industry economic factors, future profitability, determination of iBBC Inc. 's weighted average cost of capital and other variables. Although we believe that the assumptions adopted in our discounted cash flow model are reasonable, those assumptions are inherently unpredictable and uncertain. If the reporting unit is at risk of failing step one of the impairment test, we will describe the material events, trends and uncertainties that affect the reported income and the extent to which income is so affected.

We had goodwill of US$1,521,000 as of December 31, 2011 and 2010. The estimated fair value of the reporting unit exceeded its carrying value by 162% at December 31, 2011. Consequently, no goodwill impairment has been recognized.

Allowance for Obsolete Inventories. We established inventory allowance for unmarketable inventory in an amount equal to the difference between the cost of inventory and its estimated net realizable value based upon assumptions about future demand and market conditions. Management records a write-down against inventory based on several factors, including expected sales price of the item and the length of time the item has been in inventory. If actual demand and market conditions are less favorable than those projected by management, additional inventory allowance could be required. Inventory write-down is charged to cost of goods sold.

Fair Value of Financial Instruments. We follow guidance issued by the Financial Accounting Standards Board for financial instruments. Fair value represents the price that would be received to sell an asset or paid to transfer a liability in an orderly transaction between market participants at the measurement date (also referred to as an exit price). We utilize a hierarchy for inputs used in measuring fair value that gives the highest priority to observable inputs and the lowest priority to unobservable inputs as follows:

Table of Contents

Financial instruments include cash and cash equivalents, restricted cash, trade receivables, trade and other payables derivatives, available-for-sale securities, investments in life insurance contracts, bank overdrafts, notes payable, letter of credit, gold loan, shareholder's loan, warrants and options liabilities and convertible redeemable preferred shares of a subsidiary, Enzo Jewelry Inc. The carrying values of these financial instruments, other than derivatives, available-for-sale securities, investments in life insurance contracts, convertible redeemable preferred shares, and warrants and options liabilities approximate their fair values due to their short-term maturities. The convertible redeemable preferred shares were initially recorded at issue price net of issuance costs and the fair value of the warrants and option liabilities bifurcated at issuance date. We recognize changes in the redemption value immediately as they occur and adjust the carrying value of the convertible redeemable preferred shares to equal the redemption value at the end of each reporting period. The warrants and option issued in connection with the convertible redeemable preferred shares were recorded as a liability at fair value as determined on the day of issuance and subsequently adjusted to the fair value at each reporting date. We determined the fair values of the convertible redeemable preferred shares, warrants and option liabilities with the assistance of independent third party valuation firm.

The carrying values of notes payable approximate their fair values as the interest rates on these loans are reset at each month based on prevailing market interest rates.

Level 1 Observable inputs that reflect quoted prices for identical assets or liabilities in active markets.

Level 2 Include other inputs other than quoted market prices that are directly or indirectly observable in active markets.

Level 3 Unobservable inputs which are supported by little or no market activity.

Valuation techniques used to measure fair value maximize the use of observable inputs. As such, when available, we measure the fair value of financial instruments based on quoted market prices in active markets, valuation techniques that use observable market-based inputs or unobservable inputs that are corroborated by market data. Pricing information we obtain from third parties is internally validated for reasonableness prior to use in the consolidated financial statements. When observable market prices are not readily available, we generally estimate the fair value using valuation techniques that rely on alternate market data or inputs that are generally less readily observable from objective sources and are estimated based on pertinent information available at the time of the applicable reporting periods. In certain cases, fair values are not subject to precise quantification or verification and may fluctuate as economic and market factors vary and our evaluation of those factors changes. Although we use our best judgment in estimating the fair value of these financial instruments, there are inherent limitations in any estimation technique. In these cases, a minor change in an assumption could result in a significant change in its estimate of fair value, thereby increasing or decreasing the amounts of our consolidated assets, liabilities, equity and net income or loss. See note 23 to our consolidated financial statements, Fair Value of Financial Instruments, for further details.

Table of ContentsA. OPERATING RESULTS.*Out-of-Period Adjustments and Reclassifications

Subsequent to the filing of the annual report on Form 20-F for the year ended December 31, 2010, we identified errors in the consolidated financial statements for fiscal 2010. We evaluated these errors in relation to the current fiscal year, which is when they were corrected, as well as the period in which they originated. Management concluded that these errors are immaterial to the consolidated financial statements as a whole. In addition, we have corrected the classification of certain costs between costs of goods sold, selling, general and administrative expenses, and depreciation on the consolidated statement of income. Accordingly, reclassifications have been made on the consolidated statements of income information with respect to the periods presented below. Refer to note 2(ae) and 24 to the consolidated financial statements for details of these out-of-period adjustments and reclassifications.

We have secured gold loan facilities with various banks in Hong Kong, which typically bear a below-market interest rate. Under the gold loan arrangements, we may defer the purchase of gold until such time as we decide appropriate, the price to be paid being the current market price at time of payment. The gold loan, however, does expose us to certain market risks associated with potential future increases in the price of gold.

Inflation

We do not consider inflation to have had a material impact on our results of operations over the last three years.

Foreign Exchange

Approximately 38% and 56% of our sales are denominated in US Dollars and Renminbi respectively during 2011, whereas the other sales are mainly denominated in Hong Kong Dollars. The largest portion of our expenses is denominated in Renminbi, then Hong Kong Dollars, then US Dollars. The exchange rate of the Hong Kong Dollar is currently pegged to the US Dollar, but during the past several years the market exchange rate has fluctuated within a narrow range. The Chinese government principally sets the exchange rate between the Renminbi and all other currencies. As a result, the exchange rates between the Renminbi and the US Dollar and the Hong Kong Dollar have fluctuated in the past and may fluctuate in the future. If the value of the Renminbi or the Hong Kong Dollar appreciates relative to the US Dollar, such fluctuation may have a positive effect on the results of our operations. If the value of the Renminbi or the Hong Kong Dollar depreciates relative to the US Dollar, such fluctuation may have a negative effect on the results of our operations. As of December 31, 2011, the Company held non-deliverable forward contracts with a bank with total notional amount of US$1,000,000 to hedge its RMB exposures of operating cost in normal course of business.

Governmental economic and political policies and factors

For information regarding governmental economic, fiscal, monetary and political policies that could materially affect our operations, directly or indirectly, please refer to the Risk Factors section on pages 5 to 13.

B. LIQUIDITY AND CAPITAL RESOURCES.

We have no direct business operations other than the ownership of our subsidiaries and investment securities. Our ability to pay dividends and meet other obligations depends upon our receipt of dividends or other payments from our operating subsidiaries and investment securities. Our operating subsidiaries are subject to restrictions on their ability to make distributions to us, including as a result of restrictive covenants and minimum net worth requirements in loan agreements, restrictions on the conversion of local currency into US dollars or other hard currency and other regulatory restrictions.

Inventory balance increased by $63,153,000 and $26,527,000 for the years ended December 31, 2011 and 2010 respectively. There were 202 and 133 retail stores in operation as at December 31, 2011 and 2010 respectively.

Trade payables and other accruals increased by $18,735,000 and $923,000 for the years ended December 31, 2011 and 2010 respectively, which were mainly due to increased level of material purchases during the last quarter of 2011.

We have term loans classified under notes payable which are collateralized by the Group's properties. These loans are denominated in HK dollars, US dollars and Renminbi, and bear interest at pre-fixed rates in Hong Kong and China upon withdrawal or upon renewal.

Gold Loan Facilities:

Gold loans outstanding (in $)		$ 2,661
Gold loans outstanding (in troy ounces)		2,283
Gold loan interest rate (per annum)		2.8%

We have also secured gold loan facilities with various banks in Hong Kong and China, which bear a below-market interest rate. Due to lower interest rates charged for gold loans, our cost through our gold loan program has been substantially less than the costs that would have been incurred if we were to finance the purchase of all of our gold requirements with borrowings under our letter of credit facility or other credit arrangements. The gold loan, however, does expose us to certain market risks associated with potential future increases in the price of gold. We have put in place mechanisms to hedge against such risks by entering into contracts with financial institutions for the future purchase of gold. Under the gold loan arrangements, we may defer the purchase until such time as we deem appropriate, the price to be paid being the current market price at time of payment. At the close of each reporting period, the gold loan is valued at fair value with changes reflected on the income statement.

Looking Forward:

We anticipate that cash flow from operations, borrowings available under our existing credit line and our gold loan arrangement will be sufficient to satisfy our capital needs for 2012.

Impact of recently issued US GAAP accounting standards

In May 2011, the FASB issued an authoritative pronouncement on fair value measurement. The guidance is the result of joint efforts by the FASB and IASB to develop a single, converged fair value framework. The guidance is largely consistent with existing fair value measurement principles in U.S. GAAP. The guidance expands the existing disclosure requirements for fair value measurements and makes other amendments, mainly including:

- a. Highest-and-best-use and valuation-premise concepts for nonfinancial assets – the guidance indicates that the highest-and-best-use and valuation-premise concepts only apply to measuring the fair value of nonfinancial assets.
- b. Application to financial assets and financial liabilities with offsetting positions in market risks or counterparty credit risk – the guidance permits an exception to fair value measurement principles for financial assets and financial liabilities (and derivatives) with offsetting positions in market risks or counterparty credit risk when several criteria are met. When the criteria are met, an entity can measure the fair value of the net risk position.
- c. Premiums or discounts in fair value measure – the guidance states that premiums or discounts that reflect size as a characteristic of the reporting entity's holding (specifically, a blockage factor that adjusts the quoted price of an asset or a liability because the market's normal daily trading volume is not sufficient to absorb the quantity held by the entity etc.) rather than as a characteristic of the asset or liability (for example, a control premium when measuring the fair value of a controlling interest are not permitted in a fair value measurement.
- d. Fair value of an instrument classified in a reporting entity's shareholders' equity – the guidance prescribes a model for measuring the fair value of an instrument classified in shareholders' equity; this model is consistent with the guidance on measuring the fair value of liabilities.
- e. Disclosures about fair value measurements – the guidance expands disclosure requirements, particularly for Level 3 inputs. Required disclosures include:

For fair value measurements categorized in level 3 of the fair value hierarchy: (1) a quantitative disclosure of the unobservable inputs and assumptions used in the measurement, (2) a description of the valuation process in place (e.g., how the entity decides its valuation policies and procedures, as well as changes in its analyses of fair value measurements, from period to period), and (3) a narrative description of the sensitivity of the fair value to changes in unobservable inputs and interrelationships between those inputs.

The level in the fair value hierarchy of items that are not measured at fair value in the statement of financial position but whose fair value must be disclosed.

The guidance is to be applied prospectively and effective for interim and annual periods beginning after December 15, 2011, for public entities. Early application by public entities is not permitted. The Company is in the process of evaluating the effect of adoption of this pronouncement.

In June 2011, the FASB issued an authoritative pronouncement, Accounting Standards Update (ASU) 2011-05, to allow an entity the option to present the total of comprehensive income, the components of net income, and the components of other comprehensive income either in a single continuous statement of comprehensive income or in two separate but consecutive statements. In both choices, an entity is required to present each component of net income along with total net income, each component of other comprehensive income along with a total for other comprehensive income, and a total amount for comprehensive income. The guidance eliminates the option to present the components of other comprehensive income as part of the statement of changes in shareholders' equity. Regardless of whether an entity chooses to present comprehensive income in a single continuous statement or in two separate but consecutive statements, the entity is required to present on the face of the financial statements reclassification adjustments for items that are reclassified from other comprehensive income to net income in the statement(s) where the components of net income and the components of other comprehensive income are presented. These amendments do not change the items that must be reported in other comprehensive income or when an item of other comprehensive income must be reclassified to net income. The guidance should be applied retrospectively. For public entities, the amendments are effective for fiscal years and interim periods within those years, beginning after December 15, 2011. Early adoption is permitted. The Company is in the process of evaluating the effect of adoption of this pronouncement. In December 2011, the FASB issued a further authoritative pronouncement, ASU2011-12, Deferral of the Effective Date for Amendments to the Presentation of Reclassification of Items Out of Accumulated Other Comprehensive Income in ASU2011-05. The amendments supersede changes to those paragraphs in Update 2011-05 that pertain to how, when, and where reclassification adjustments are presented. The amendments in this Update are effective for public entities for fiscal years, and interim periods within those years, beginning after December 15, 2011. The Company does not expect this update to have a material impact on its financial position, results of operations or cash flows as the impact only relate to presentation of the financial statements.

In September 2011, the FASB issued an authoritative pronouncement, which simplifies how entities test goodwill for impairment. Under the amendments in this update, an entity has the option to first assess qualitative factors to determine whether the existence of events or circumstances leads the entity to determine that it is more likely than not that the fair value of a reporting unit is less than its carrying amount. If after assessing the totality of events or circumstances, an entity determines that it is not more likely than not that the fair value of the reporting unit is less than its carrying amount, then performing the two-step impairment test is unnecessary. If the entity concludes otherwise, then it is required to test goodwill for impairment under the two-step process. The amendments are effective for annual and interim goodwill impairment tests performed for fiscal years beginning after December 15, 2011 and early adoption is permitted. The Company does not expect this update to have a material impact on its financial position, results of operations or cash flows.

In December 2011, the FASB issued an authoritative pronouncement on disclosures about offsetting assets and liabilities. Under this pronouncement, entities are required to disclose both gross information and net information about both instruments and transactions eligible for offset in the statement of financial position and instruments and transactions subject to an agreement similar to a master netting arrangement. This scope would include derivatives, sale and repurchase agreements and reverse sale and repurchase agreements, and securities borrowing and securities lending arrangements. An entity is required to apply the amendments for annual reporting periods beginning on or after January 1, 2013, and interim periods within those annual periods. An entity should provide the disclosures required by those amendments retrospectively for all comparative periods presented. The Company is in the process of evaluating the effect of adoption of this pronouncement.

encourage them to remain in our employ by providing them with an opportunity to benefit from any appreciation of our common stock through the issuance of stock options

Options constituted either incentive stock options within the meaning of Section 422 of the United States Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended, or options which constituted nonqualified options at the time of issuance of such options. The plan provided that incentive stock options and/or nonqualified stock options may be granted to our officers, directors, employees and advisors selected by the compensation committee. The compensation committee had the sole authority to interpret the plan and make all determinations necessary or advisable for administering the plan. The exercise price for any incentive option must be at least equal to the fair market value of the shares as of the date of grant. Upon the exercise of the option, the exercise price must be paid in full either in cash, shares of our stock or a combination. If any option is not exercised for any reason, such shares shall again become available for the purposes of the plan.

ITEM 10. ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

A. SHARE CAPITAL.

Not applicable.

B. MEMORANDUM AND ARTICLES OF ASSOCIATION.

Corporate Powers. We have been registered in the British Virgin Islands since January 30, 1997, under British Virgin Islands International Business Companies number 216796. Clause 4 of our Memorandum of Association states that the objects for which we are established are to engage in any businesses which are not prohibited by law in force in the British Virgin Islands.

Directors. A director who is materially interested in any transaction with us shall declare the material facts of and nature of his interest at the meeting of the Board of Directors. A director may vote or be counted as the quorum on any resolution of the Board in respect of any transaction in which he is materially interested. With the prior or subsequent approval by a resolution of directors, the directors may fix the emoluments of directors with respect to services to be rendered in any capacity to us. The directors may, by a resolution of directors, exercise all the powers of the Company to borrow money. There is no age limit requirement for retirement or non-retirement of directors. A director shall not require a share qualification.

Share Rights, Preferences and Restrictions. Our authorized share capital is US$1 million divided into 100 million shares of par value US$0.01 per share. All dividends unclaimed for three years after having been declared may be forfeited by resolution of the directors for our benefit. All shares vote as one class and each whole share has one vote. Directors stand for reelection on an annual basis. Cumulative voting for directors is not authorized. We may redeem any of our own shares for such fair value as we by a resolution of directors determine. All shares have the same rights with regard to dividends and distributions upon our liquidation.

Changing Share Rights. The rights of each class and series of shares that we are authorized to issue shall be fixed by the resolution of directors. If the authorized capital is divided into different classes, the rights attached to any class may be varied with the consent in writing of the holders of not less than three-fourths of the issued shares of that class and of the holders of not less than three-fourths of the issued shares of any other class which may be affected by such variation.

Shareholder Meetings. The directors may convene meetings of our members at such times and in such manner and places as the directors consider necessary or desirable. The directors shall convene such a meeting upon the written request of members holding 10 percent or more of our outstanding voting shares. At least seven days notice of the meeting shall be given to the members whose names appear on the share register.

Restrictions on Rights to Own Securities. There are no limitations on the rights to own our securities.

Change in Control Provisions. There are no provisions of our Memorandum of Association and Articles of Association that would have an effect of delaying, deferring or preventing a change in our control and that would have operate only with respect to a merger, acquisition or corporate restructuring involving us.

Disclosure of Share Ownership. There are no bylaw provisions governing the ownership threshold above which shareholder ownership must be disclosed.

Applicable Law. Under the laws of most jurisdictions in the US, majority and controlling shareholders generally have certain fiduciary responsibilities to the minority shareholders. Shareholder action must be taken in good faith and actions by controlling shareholders which are obviously unreasonable may be declared null and void. BVI law protecting the interests of minority shareholders may not be as protective in all circumstances as the law protecting minority shareholders in US jurisdictions.

While BVI law does permit a shareholder of a BVI company to sue its directors derivatively, that is, in the name of, and for the benefit of, our company and to sue a company and its directors for his benefit and for the benefit of others similarly situated, the circumstances in which any such action may be brought, and the procedures and defenses that may be available in respect of any such action, may result in the rights of shareholders of a BVI company being more limited than those of shareholders of a company organized in the US.

Our directors have the power to take certain actions without shareholder approval, including an amendment of our Memorandum of Association or Articles of Association or an increase or reduction in our authorized capital, which would require shareholder approval under the laws of most US jurisdictions. In addition, the directors of a BVI corporation, subject in certain cases to court approval but without shareholder approval, may, among other things, implement a reorganization, certain mergers or consolidations, the sale, transfer, exchange or disposition of any assets, property, part of the business, or securities of the corporation, or any combination, if they determine it is in the best interests of the corporation, its creditors, or its shareholders. Our ability to amend our Memorandum of Association and Articles of Association without shareholder approval could have the effect of delaying, deterring or preventing a change in our control without any further action by the shareholders, including a tender offer to purchase our common stock at a premium over then current market prices.

The International Business Companies Act of the British Virgin Islands permits the creation in our Memorandum and Articles of Association of staggered terms of directors, cumulative voting, shareholder approval of corporate matters by written consent, and the issuance of preferred shares. Currently, our Memorandum and Articles of Association only provide for shareholder approval of corporate matters by written consent, but not for staggered terms of directors, cumulative voting or the issuance of preferred shares.

Table of Contents

As in most US jurisdictions, the board of directors of a BVI corporation is charged with the management of the affairs of the corporation. In most US jurisdictions, directors owe a fiduciary duty to the corporation and its shareholders, including a duty of care, under which directors must properly apprise themselves of all reasonably available information, and a duty of loyalty, under which they must protect the interests of the corporation and refrain from conduct that injures the corporation or its shareholders or that deprives the corporation or its shareholders of any profit or advantage. Many US jurisdictions have enacted various statutory provisions which permit the monetary liability of directors to be eliminated or limited.

Under BVI law, liability of a corporate director to the corporation is primarily limited to cases of willful malfeasance in the performance of his duties or to cases where the director has not acted honestly and in good faith and with a view to the best interests of the corporation. However, under our Articles of Association, we are authorized to indemnify any director or officer who is made or threatened to be made a party to a legal or administrative proceeding by virtue of being one of our directors or officers, provided such person acted honestly and in good faith and with a view to our best interests and, in the case of a criminal proceeding, such person had no reasonable cause to believe that his conduct was unlawful. Our Articles of Association also enable us to indemnify any director or officer who was successful in such a proceeding against expense and judgments, fines and amounts paid in settlement and reasonably incurred in connection with the proceeding.

The above description of certain differences between BVI and US corporate laws is only a summary and does not purport to be complete or to address every applicable aspect of such laws. However, we believe that all material differences are disclosed above.

Changes in Capital. Requirements to effect changes in capital are not more stringent than is required by law.

C. MATERIAL CONTRACTS.

On April 13, 2011, LJ International Inc. entered into a definitive agreement for a private placement of shares of Enzo Jewelry Inc. (ENZO), its indirect wholly-owned subsidiary, with a consortium of investors (the Investors) led by the private equity firms FountainVest Partners and Spring Capital Asia. The transaction was completed and closed on May 3, 2011. Under the terms of the agreement, the Investors made an initial investment of US$41.38 million, including an investment of US$31.40 million in newly issued ENZO shares and an acquisition of existing shares of ENZO from Enzo International Holdings Limited which is a wholly-owned subsidiary of LJ International Inc. in the amount of US$9.98 million. In aggregate, the Investors hold approximately 28.27% of ENZO s total issued share capital after giving effect to the transaction, which was in the form of a newly created class of redeemable convertible preferred shares.

As part of the transaction, the Investors also received certain rights to make a further investment of approximately US$25.88 million to acquire up to 10.35% of ENZO. The Company also agreed to appoint Investor representatives to ENZO s board of directors. Based on the terms of the agreement, the parties intend to enhance shareholder value by spinning off the ENZO retail jewelry division through an initial public offering of ENZO on an international stock exchange in the future.

For more information regarding this transaction, please refer to the forms of the definitive transaction documents which were filed as Exhibits to our Report on Form 6-K which we filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission on April 14, 2011 and which are incorporated herein as Exhibits 4.2 through 4.5 to this annual report.

Except as set forth above, we did not enter into any other material contracts for the years ended December 31, 2010 and 2011.

D. EXCHANGE CONTROLS.

There are no material British Virgin Islands laws, decrees, regulations or other legislation that impose foreign exchange controls on us or that affect our payment of dividends, interest or other payments to non-resident holders of our capital stock. British Virgin Islands law and our Memorandum of Association and Articles of Association impose no limitations on the right of non-resident or foreign owners to hold or vote our common stock.

Table of Contents

E. TAXATION.

The following is a summary of anticipated material US federal income and British Virgin Islands tax consequences of an investment in our common stock. The summary does not deal with all possible tax consequences relating to an investment in our common stock and does not purport to deal with the tax consequences applicable to all categories of investors, some of which, such as dealers in securities, insurance companies and tax-exempt entities, may be subject to special rules. In particular, the discussion does not address the tax consequences under state, local and other non-US and non-British Virgin Islands tax laws. Accordingly, each prospective investor should consult its own tax advisor regarding the particular tax consequences to it of an investment in the common stock. The discussion below is based upon laws and relevant interpretations in effect as of the date of this annual report, all of which are subject to change.

United States Federal Income Taxation

The following discussion addresses only the material US federal income tax consequences to a US person, defined as a US citizen or resident, a US corporation, a US partnership or an estate or trust subject to US federal income tax on all of its income regardless of source, making an investment in the common stock. For taxable years beginning after December 31, 1996, a trust will be a US person only if:

a court within the United States is able to exercise primary supervision over its administration; and one or more United States persons have the authority to control all of its substantial decisions.

In addition, the following discussion does not address the tax consequences to a person who holds or will hold, directly or indirectly, 10% or more of our common stock, which we refer to as a 10% Shareholder. Non-US persons and 10% Shareholders are advised to consult their own tax advisors regarding the tax considerations incident to an investment in our common stock.

A US investor receiving a distribution of our common stock will be required to include such distribution in gross income as a taxable dividend, to the extent of our current or accumulated earnings and profits as determined under US federal income tax principles. Any distributions in excess of our earnings and profits will first be treated, for US federal income tax purposes, as a nontaxable return of capital, to the extent of the US investor's adjusted tax basis in our common stock, and then as gain from the sale or exchange of a capital asset, provided that our common stock constitutes a capital asset in the hands of the US investor. US corporate shareholders will not be entitled to any deduction for distributions received as dividends on our common stock.

Gain or loss on the sale or exchange of our common stock will be treated as capital gain or loss if our common stock is held as a capital asset by the US investor. Such capital gain or loss will be long-term capital gain or loss if the US investor has held our common stock for more than one year at the time of the sale or exchange.

Table of Contents

A holder of common stock may be subject to backup withholding at the rate of 28% with respect to dividends paid on our common stock if the dividends are paid by a paying agent, broker or other intermediary in the United States or by a US broker or certain United States-related brokers to the holder outside the United States. In addition, the proceeds of the sale, exchange or redemption of common stock may be subject to backup withholding, if such proceeds are paid by a paying agent, broker or other intermediary in the United States.

Backup withholding may be avoided by the holder of common stock if such holder:

is a corporation or comes within other exempt categories; or provides a correct taxpayer identification number, certifies that such holder is not subject to backup withholding and otherwise complies with the backup withholding rules.

In addition, holders of common stock who are not US persons are generally exempt from backup withholding, although they may be required to comply with certification and identification procedures in order to prove their exemption.

Any amounts withheld under the backup withholding rules from a payment to a holder will be refunded or credited against the holder's US federal income tax liability, if any, provided that amount withheld is claimed as federal taxes withheld on the holder's US federal income tax return relating to the year in which the backup withholding occurred. A holder who is not otherwise required to file a US income tax return must generally file a claim for refund or, in the case of non-US holders, an income tax return in order to claim refunds of withheld amounts.

British Virgin Islands Taxation

Under the International Business Companies Act of the British Virgin Islands as currently in effect, a holder of common stock who is not a resident of BVI is exempt from BVI income tax on dividends paid with respect to the common stock and all holders of common stock are not liable for BVI income tax on gains realized during that year on sale or disposal of such shares; BVI does not impose a withholding tax on dividends paid by a company incorporated under the International Business Companies Act.

There are no capital gains, gift or inheritance taxes levied by BVI on companies incorporated under the International Business Companies Act. In addition, the common stock is not subject to transfer taxes, stamp duties or similar charges.

There is no income tax treaty or convention currently in effect between the United States and the British Virgin Islands.

ITEM 11. QUANTITATIVE AND QUALITATIVE DISCLOSURES ABOUT MARKET RISK

Interest Rate Risk

Our interest rate risk arises primarily from bank borrowings at variable rates and bank deposits that expose us to fair value interest rate risk and cash flow interest rate risk. We currently do not have any interest rate hedging policy and have not historically used any derivative financial instruments to manage our interest risk exposure. Our management monitors our interest rate profile and will consider hedging interest rate should there be a need.

In 2009, 2010 and 2011, it is estimated that a general increase/decrease of 10 basis points in interest rates, with all other variables held constant, would have increased/(decreased) our profit for the year by US$7,000, US$10,000 and US$24,000, respectively.

Credit Risk

Our credit risk is primarily attributable to trade, cash and cash equivalents, prepayments and other current assets and restricted cash. Our management has a credit policy in place, and our exposure to credit risk is monitored on an ongoing basis. We place deposits with banks which we believe are of a good reputation. We have concentration of credit risk to a certain extent as 13%, 30% and 25% of our trade receivables as of December 31, 2009, 2010 and 2011, respectively, was due from our five largest customers.

To mitigate our credit risk on trade receivables, we have purchased trade credit insurance to insure 85% of the invoiced amount for all of our export sales, which includes our five largest customers.

Table of Contents

Currency Risk

We are exposed to currency risk primarily through sales which give rise to receivables and cash balances that are denominated in Renminbi. The exchange rate of the Renminbi with the U.S. dollars, is affected by, among other things, China's political and economic conditions. See Item 3 Risk Factors. Fluctuations in exchange rates may have a material adverse effect on your investment. Any significant revaluation of the Renminbi may materially and adversely affect our cash flows, revenue, earnings and financial position. Based on the amount of our cash denominated in Renminbi as of December 31, 2009, 2010 and 2011, a 5.0% change in the exchange rates between the Renminbi and the U.S. dollar would result in an increase or decrease of US$204,000, US$113,000 and US$177,000 in our exchange losses, respectively.

The functional currency of the Company and its subsidiaries in the BVI is United States dollars (US$), while the functional currency of its subsidiaries in HK and the PRC is US$ and Renminbi respectively. The reporting currency of the Company is US$. All transactions in currencies other than U.S. dollar during the year are recorded at the exchange rates prevailing on the respective relevant dates of such transactions. Monetary assets and liabilities existing at the balance sheet date denominated in currencies other than U.S. dollar are re-measured at the exchange rates prevailing on such date. Exchange differences are recorded in our consolidated income statement. Fluctuations in exchange rates may also affect our balance sheet.

See Item 3. Risk Factors. Fluctuations in exchange rates may have a material adverse effect on your investment. For a discussion of currency risk and the hedging transactions we entered into to reduce our exposure to exchange rate fluctuations.

Liquidity Risk

Our policy is to regularly monitor our liquidity requirements to ensure that we maintain sufficient reserve of cash and adequate committed lines of funding from major banks and financial institutions to meet our liquidity requirements in the short and long terms. We also monitor the utilization of bank borrowings. We are exposed to liquidity risk to the extent we have insufficient cash or other source of funding to meet our obligations in connection with debt service, accounts payable and/or other liabilities when they become due and payable and to satisfy our expansion plan in retail business in China.

For additional discussions of our market risks, see Item 3 Key Information Risk Factors.

ITEM 15. CONTROLS AND PROCEDURES

(a) Disclosure Controls and Procedures.

As of the end of the period covered by this report, our management, with the participation of our chief executive officer and chief financial officer, has performed an evaluation of the effectiveness of our disclosure controls and procedures within the meaning of Rules 13a-15(e) of the Exchange Act.

Based upon that evaluation, our management has concluded that, as of December 31, 2011, our disclosure controls and procedures were effective.

(b) Management's annual report on internal control over financial reporting.

Our management is responsible for establishing and maintaining adequate internal control over financial reporting, as defined in Rules 13a-15(f) and 15d-15(f) under the Exchange Act.

Because of its inherent limitations, internal control over financial reporting may not prevent or detect misstatements. In addition, projections of any evaluation of effectiveness of our internal control over financial reporting to future periods are subject to the risk that controls may become inadequate because of changes in conditions, or that the degree of compliance with the policies and procedures may deteriorate.

Our management evaluated the effectiveness of our internal control over financial reporting as of December 31, 2011, based on criteria established in the framework in Internal Control-Integrated Framework issued by the Committee of Sponsoring Organizations of the Treadway Commission. Management's assessment included an evaluation of the design of the Company's internal control over financial reporting and testing of the operational effectiveness of its internal control over financial reporting. Our management, including our Chief Executive Officer and Chief Financial Officer, reviewed the results of its assessment with the Audit Committee of our Board of Directors. Based on our assessment and those criteria, management believes that the Company maintained effective internal controls over financial reporting as of December 31, 2011.

Table of Contents

Our independent registered public accounting firm, Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu CPA Limited, has issued its attestation report on the effectiveness of our internal control over financial reporting as of December 31, 2011, as stated in its report, which appears on page F-2 and 3 of this annual report on Form 20-F.

(c) Changes in internal control over financial reporting.

In performing our assessment of internal control over financial reporting for fiscal year ended December 31, 2010, management had identified a material weakness in our internal control over financial reporting. The material weakness identified related to insufficient number of U.S. GAAP qualified accounting and finance personnel. Accordingly, management believed that this lack of U.S. GAAP experience constituted a material weakness.

At that time, we indicated that we intended to adopt International Financial Reporting Standards (IFRS) and interpretations approved by the International Accounting Standards Board rather than U.S. GAAP as soon as practicable thereafter. However, we currently believe that it would be beneficial to our shareholders, investors and other financial statement readers in the U.S. capital markets that our financial statements continue to be prepared in accordance with U.S. GAAP. Therefore, after weighing the costs and benefits of adopting IFRS in fiscal year 2011, we have decided to delay our adoption of IFRS.

We have undertaken remedial steps to address the material weakness, including engaging external professionals since September 2011 with experience in U.S. GAAP and SEC reporting from a public accounting firm, to assist us in analyzing transactions and accounting issues under U.S. GAAP, support in understanding and to comply with disclosure requirements for financial reporting, and analyze impact of newly issued accounting standards on our financial statements. They have also provided knowledge transfer and training to our financial reporting personnel and our Chief Financial Officer on the application of U.S. GAAP specifically to our business environment and transactions throughout the engagement.

Since August 2011, we have also engaged the public accounting firm to review our internal controls and their design effectiveness of U.S. GAAP financial reporting, perform tests of effectiveness, and provide recommendations to improve our internal controls over financial reporting in time to comply with the management assessment requirements of Section 404 of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act (SOX 404) for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2011.

With the support and assistance from external professionals and the participation of our senior management, we have formed a taskforce led by senior management members, including our Chief Financial Officer, in pursuing compliance with the requirements under US GAAP and SOX 404 and are committed to continuously undertaking measures to improve our internal control over financial reporting. These measures included, but were not limited to, continuously strengthening our knowledge of U.S. GAAP and resources, improving our financial statement closing and reporting process and procedures, and developing and strengthening our internal audit functions. Our Audit Committee has also provided oversight and supervision during our remediation process. We consider that the mitigating controls as described above have been effective for a sufficient period to allow management to test such controls and conclude on their effectiveness. Accordingly, management determined that the applicable controls were effectively designed and operating so as to enable management to conclude the aforementioned material weakness has been remediated and that our internal controls over financial reporting as of December 31, 2011 were effective.

Report of Independent Registered Public Accounting Firm

To the Board of Directors and Shareholders of LJ International Inc.

We have audited the accompanying consolidated balance sheets of LJ International Inc. and subsidiaries (the Company) as of December 31, 2011, and the related consolidated statements of income, shareholders' equity and comprehensive income, and cash flows for the year ended December 31, 2011. Our audit also included the financial statement schedules in Schedule I and II. We also have audited the Company's internal control over financial reporting as of December 31, 2011, based on Internal Control - Integrated Framework issued by the Committee of Sponsoring Organizations of the Treadway Commission. The Company's management is responsible for these financial statements and financial statement schedules, for maintaining effective internal control over financial reporting, and for its assessment of the effectiveness of internal control over financial reporting, included in the accompanying Management's Annual Report on Internal Control over Financial Reporting. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements, financial statement schedules and an opinion on the Company's internal control over financial reporting based on our audits.

We conducted our audit in accordance with the standards of the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (United States). Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement and whether effective internal control over financial reporting was maintained in all material respects. Our audit of the financial statements included examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements, assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, and evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. Our audit of internal control over financial reporting included obtaining an understanding of internal control over financial reporting, assessing the risk that a material weakness exists, and testing and evaluating the design and operating effectiveness of internal control based on the assessed risk. Our audit also included performing such other procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances. We believe that our audit provide a reasonable basis for our opinions.

A company's internal control over financial reporting is a process designed by, or under the supervision of, the company's principal executive and principal financial officers, or persons performing similar functions, and effected by the company's board of directors, management, and other personnel to provide reasonable assurance regarding the reliability of financial reporting and the preparation of financial statements for external purposes in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles. A company's internal control over financial reporting includes those policies and procedures that (1) pertain to the maintenance of records that, in reasonable detail, accurately and fairly reflect the transactions and dispositions of the assets of the company; (2) provide reasonable assurance that transactions are recorded as necessary to permit preparation of financial statements in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles, and that receipts and expenditures of the company are being made only in accordance with authorizations of management and directors of the company; and (3) provide reasonable assurance regarding prevention or timely detection of unauthorized acquisition, use, or disposition of the company's assets that could have a material effect on the financial statements.

Because of the inherent limitations of internal control over financial reporting, including the possibility of collusion or improper management override of controls, material misstatements due to error or fraud may not be prevented or detected on a timely basis. Also, projections of any evaluation of the effectiveness of the internal control over financial reporting to future periods are subject to the risk that the controls may become inadequate because of changes in conditions, or that the degree of compliance with the policies or procedures may deteriorate.

2. SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES*(a) Basis of accounting*

The consolidated financial statements are prepared in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America (US GAAP).

(b) Basis of consolidation

The consolidated financial statements include the financial statements of LJI and its subsidiaries. All intercompany balances and transactions have been eliminated upon consolidation.

(c) Uses of estimates

The preparation of the consolidated financial statements, in conformity with US GAAP, requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the amounts reported in the consolidated financial statements and the accompanying note disclosures. Significant estimates and assumptions include the valuation for impairment of property, plant and equipment, valuation allowance for receivables, write down of excess and obsolete inventories, uncertain tax position, deferred income tax asset and liabilities, valuations of warrants and options liabilities. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

2. SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES (Continued)

(d) Goodwill

The excess of the purchase considerations over the fair value of net assets acquired is recorded on the consolidated balance sheet as goodwill. Goodwill is not amortized, but instead is tested for impairment at the reporting unit level at least on an annual basis at the balance sheet date or more frequently if certain indicators arise that would more likely than not reduce the fair value of a reporting unit below its carrying amount.

Goodwill impairment is tested using a two-step approach. The first step compares the fair value of each reporting unit to its carrying amount, including goodwill. If the fair value of the reporting unit exceeds its carrying amount, goodwill is not considered to be impaired and the second step is not required. If the carrying amount of a reporting unit exceeds its fair value, the second step compares the implied fair value of goodwill to the carrying value of the reporting unit's goodwill. The implied fair value of goodwill is determined in the same manner to accounting for a business combination with allocation of the assessed fair value to all of the assets and liabilities of that reporting unit. The excess of the fair value of the reporting unit over the amounts assigned to the assets and liabilities is the implied fair value of goodwill.

The Company performed its annual impairment review of goodwill on December 31st of each year, and has not recorded any impairment losses for the years ended December 31, 2011, 2010 and 2009.

(e) Revenue recognition

(i) Product sales

Product sales represent the invoiced value of products sold, net of value added taxes (VAT). The Company recognizes revenue from the sale of products when the following criteria are met: 1) persuasive evidence of an arrangement exists (sales agreements and customer purchase orders are used to determine the existence of an arrangement); 2) delivery of the product has occurred and risks and benefits of ownership have been transferred, which is when the product is received by the customer at its or a designated location in accordance with the sales terms; 3) the sales price is fixed or determinable; and 4) collectibility is probable.

In the PRC, VAT at a general rate of 17% on invoice amount is collected on behalf of tax authorities in respect of the sales of products and is not recorded as revenue. VAT collected from customers, net of VAT paid for purchases, is recorded as an asset or a liability in the consolidated balance sheets until it is paid to the authorities.

(ii) Rental income

Rental income under operating lease is recognized in the consolidated statements of income in equal installments over the period covered by the lease term and included in operating revenue.

Table of Contents2. SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES (Continued)(e) Revenue recognition (Continued)(iii) Other income (loss)*

Interest income is accrued on a time proportion basis on the principal outstanding and at the interest rate applicable.

Change in fair values of derivatives, warrants and options liabilities arise from the annual re-measurement are recognized as gain or loss in the consolidated statement of income.

Exchange gain primarily relates to conversion of loans made to the PRC subsidiaries which are denominated in US dollars and HK dollars, short-term in nature and are repayable in full on demand.

Gain (loss) on sales of available-for-sale and held for sale securities is realized and recognized in the consolidated statements of income when the securities are sold.

Gain on disposal of property held for lease is realized and recognized in the consolidated statements of income when the property is sold.

Operating revenue represents:

	Year ended December 31, 2011 US$	Year ended December 31, 2010 US$	Year ended December 31, 2009 US$
Product sales	190,626	144,879	115,599
Rental income	113	79	100
	190,739	144,958	115,699
Less: Sales return allowance	(8,559)	(4,410)	(5,176)
	182,180	140,548	110,523

(f) Cost of goods sold

Cost of goods sold primarily consists of cost of raw materials, direct labor, manufacturing overhead which includes depreciation expenses of plant and machinery.

(g) Sales return reserve

The Company has allowed sales returns and its sales generally include specified return policy for certain customers. The Company reserves for sales returns as a reduction of revenue at the time the operating revenue is recognized based on historical sales return experience and agreed terms of sales return stated in the contracts with certain specific customers.

(h) Shipping and handling costs

The shipping and handling costs are included in cost of goods sold. Shipping and handling costs were US$2,547, US$1,661 and US$1,548 for the years ended December 31, 2011, 2010 and 2009 respectively.

Table of Contents2. SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES (Continued)(i) Advertising and promotion costs*

Advertising and promotion expenses are included in selling, general and administrative expenses and are generally expensed when incurred. Advertising costs were US$4,911, US$1,376 and US$815 for the years ended December 31, 2011, 2010 and 2009 respectively.

(j) Earnings per share

Basic earnings per share is computed by dividing net income attributable to LJI International Inc. common shareholders by the weighted average number of ordinary shares outstanding during the year. The Company has determined that its convertible preference shares of its subsidiary, Enzo Jewelry Inc. (ENZO) participate in undistributed earnings on the same basis as the ordinary shares of ENZO. The effect on the consolidated earnings per share of the preferred shares issued by ENZO has been included in computing ENZO's earnings per share data using the two-class method. Under this method, net income attributable to ENZO common shareholders is allocated on a pro rata basis to the ordinary and convertible preference shares to the extent that each class may share in income for the period had it been distributed. Losses are not allocated to the participating securities. Diluted earnings per share of ENZO is computed using the more dilutive of (a) the two-class method or (b) the if-converted method. The basic and diluted earnings per share of ENZO is then included in the consolidated earnings per share computations of the Company based on the consolidated group's holding of the ENZO's securities. The consolidated diluted earnings per share of the Company reflect the potential dilution that could occur if securities or other contracts to issue common shares were exercised or converted into common shares, which also include the potential dilutive effect of the preferred shares of ENZO if they are converted into the Company's ordinary shares through the flip-over option (note 17).

(k) Fair value of financial instruments

Fair value represents the price that would be received to sell an asset or paid to transfer a liability in an orderly transaction between market participants at the measurement date (also referred to as an exit price). The Company utilizes a hierarchy for inputs used in measuring fair value that gives the highest priority to observable inputs and the lowest priority to unobservable inputs as follows:

Financial instruments include cash and cash equivalents, restricted cash, trade receivables, trade and other payables, derivatives, available-for-sale securities, investments in life insurance contracts, bank overdrafts, notes payable, letter of credit, gold loan, shareholder's loan, warrants and options liabilities and convertible redeemable preferred shares of ENZO. The carrying values of these financial instruments, other than derivatives, available-for-sale securities, investments in life insurance contracts, convertible redeemable preferred shares of ENZO, and warrants and options liabilities approximate their fair values due to their short-term maturities. The convertible redeemable preferred shares of ENZO were initially recorded at issue price net of issuance costs and the fair value of the warrants and option liabilities bifurcated at issuance date. The Company recognizes changes in the redemption value immediately as they occur and adjusts the carrying value of the convertible redeemable preferred shares to equal the redemption value at the end of each reporting period (note 17). The warrants and option issued in connection with the convertible redeemable preferred shares were recorded as a liability at fair value as determined on the day of issuance and subsequently adjusted to the fair value at each reporting date. The Company with the assistance of independent third party valuation firm determined the fair values of the convertible redeemable preferred shares, warrants and option liabilities (note 17).

The carrying values of notes payable approximate their fair values as the interest rates on these loans are reset at each month based on prevailing market interest rates.

Level 1 Observable inputs that reflect quoted prices for identical assets or liabilities in active markets.

Level 2 Include other inputs other than quoted market prices that are directly or indirectly observable in active markets.

Level 3 Unobservable inputs which are supported by little or no market activity.

Valuation techniques used to measure fair value maximize the use of observable inputs. As such, when available, the Company measures the fair value of financial instruments based on quoted market prices in active markets, valuation techniques that use observable market-based inputs or unobservable inputs that are corroborated by market data. Pricing information the Company obtains from third parties is internally validated for reasonableness prior to use in the consolidated financial statements. When observable market prices are not readily available, the Company generally estimates the fair value using valuation techniques that rely on alternate market data or inputs that are generally less readily observable from objective sources and are estimated based on pertinent information available at the time of the applicable reporting periods. In certain cases, fair values are not subject to precise quantification or verification and may fluctuate as economic and market factors vary and the Company's evaluation of those factors changes. Although the Company uses its best judgment in estimating the fair value of these financial instruments, there are inherent limitations in any estimation technique. In these cases, a minor change in an assumption could result in a significant change in its estimate of fair value, thereby increasing or decreasing the amounts of the Company's consolidated assets, liabilities, equity and net income or loss. See note 23, "Fair Value of Financial Instruments", for further details.

(l) Trade receivables

Trade receivables are recorded at the invoiced amount and do not bear interest. Amounts collected on trade receivables are included in net cash provided by operating activities in the consolidated statements of cash flows. The Company maintains an allowance for doubtful accounts for estimated losses inherent in its trade receivable portfolio and purchases trade credit insurance to cover the risk of collectibilities on receivables related to its wholesale business. In establishing the required allowance, management considers historical losses, current receivables aging, and existing industry and national economic data.

The Company reviews its allowance for doubtful accounts regularly. The Company's general credit terms are ranges from 30 days to 90 days for its wholesale customers. The receivables related to its retail business are primarily reimbursements from mall operators in the PRC where the Company's retail shops are located, such mall operators will collect the sales proceeds from the Company's customers on behalf of the Company upon purchases with remittance term ranges from 30 days to 60 days. Past due balances over 120 days and over a specified amount are reviewed individually for collectibility. All other balances are reviewed on a pooled basis by aging of such balances. Account balances are written off against the allowance after all means of collection have been exhausted and the potential for recovery is considered remote, and charged in selling, general and administrative expenses on the consolidated statements of income. The Company does not have any off-balance-sheet credit exposure related to its customers, except for outstanding bills discounted with banks (note 10), that are subject to recourse for non-payment.

Inventories are stated at the lower of cost and market. Cost, which comprises all costs of purchase and, where applicable, costs of conversion and other costs that have been incurred in bringing the inventories to their present location and condition, including inbound freight charges, purchasing and receiving cost, inspection costs and internal transfer costs, is calculated using the weighted average costing method. Estimated losses on inventories represent reserves for obsolescence, excess quantities, irregularities and slow moving inventory, and which are charged to cost of goods sold. In case of inventory which has been written down below cost at the close of a fiscal year, such reduced amount forms a new cost basis that subsequently cannot be marked up based on changes in underlying facts and circumstances. The Company estimates the amount of impairment write-down on the basis of its assessment of the inventory's net realizable value based upon current market conditions and historical experience.

(n) Properties held for lease

Properties held for lease are carried at cost, less accumulated depreciation and accumulated impairment loss. Depreciation is computed using the straight-line method over the estimated useful lives of the assets. Rental income from these properties is recorded on a monthly basis in accordance with the lease terms.

(o) Property, plant and equipment (PPE) and depreciation

PPE are stated at cost less accumulated depreciation and accumulated impairment loss, and include expenditure that substantially increases the useful lives of existing assets. Maintenance and repairs are charged to current operations as incurred. Upon sale, retirement, or other disposition of these assets, the cost and related accumulated depreciation and accumulated impairment loss are removed from the respective accounts, and any gain or loss is included in the consolidated statement of operations. Plant and equipment under capital leases are stated at the present value of minimum lease payments.

Depreciation on PPE is calculated by using the straight-line method (after taking into account their respective estimated residual values) over the estimated useful lives of the related assets at the following annual rates:

Leasehold land and buildings	shorter of 2% or over the term of leases
Leasehold improvement	shorter of 10% or the term of leases
Furniture, fixtures and equipment	20% to 50%
Plant and machinery	5% to 10%
Motor vehicles	10% to 20%

Depreciation on PPE attributable to manufacturing activities is capitalized as part of inventory, and depreciation related to abnormal amounts from idle capacity is charged to cost of goods sold for the period incurred. Total depreciation for the years ended December 31, 2011, 2010 and 2009 were US$4,741, US$2,779 and US$2,197 respectively.

The Company evaluates its long-lived assets, such as property, plant and equipment, for impairment whenever events or changes in circumstances indicate that the carrying amount of an asset may not be recoverable. If circumstances require a long-lived asset be tested for possible impairment, the Company first compares undiscounted cash flows expected to be generated by an asset to the carrying value of the asset. If the carrying value of the long-lived asset is not recoverable on an undiscounted cash flow basis, impairment is recognized to the extent that the carrying value exceeds its fair value. Fair value is determined through various valuation techniques including discounted cash flow models, quoted market values and third-party independent appraisals, as considered necessary.

In 2011, certain long-lived assets in the manufacture and wholesale segment are not expected to be used for the next 12 months, and no future cash inflows or earnings from the usage of these long-lived assets are expected. Accordingly, the long-lived assets were determined to be not recoverable and an impairment loss of US$2,324 was recognized. No impairment loss was recognized for the years ended December 31, 2010 and 2009.

(q) Available-for-sale securities

The Company classifies its investment fund as available-for-sale securities. The fund is of current nature and the market to trade is readily available, except it is restricted and secures obligations under trade credit banking facilities. Investments classified as available for sale securities are reported at fair values at the end of each reporting period. Unrealized holding gains and losses for available-for-sale securities are excluded from earnings and reported in other comprehensive income until realized. The Company routinely reviews available-for-sale securities for other-than-temporary declines in fair value below the cost basis, and when events or changes in circumstances indicate the carrying value of an asset may not be recoverable, the security is written down to fair value. Gains and losses on sales of securities are computed on a specific identification basis. Available-for-sale securities comprise:

	As of December 31,
	2011	2010
	US$	US$
Quoted investment fund, at cost	2,189	2,369

Quoted investment fund	1,172	8	1,172	17	2,344	25

Additional details on fair value changes of available-for-sale securities have been disclosed in note 23.

(r) Gold loan and embedded derivative

Gold loan is commodity-indexed debts with an embedded derivative. The loans are recorded at its original amount and adjusted for additional borrowings and repayments. The embedded derivative component was bifurcated and recorded at fair value on the consolidated balance sheet, considering the market prices, volatilities of gold and the time value of money. Changes in fair values of embedded derivative are included in the consolidated statement of operations as net gain or loss on derivatives.

The Company enters into derivative contracts to hedge the future settlements of gold loan in order to mitigate the risk of market price fluctuations. They consist of contracts that are used to hedge against changes in the fair values of gold prices when the Company settles the gold loan.

The derivative contracts and the embedded derivative are valued at fair value. Changes in fair value of derivative contracts are included in the consolidated statement of operations.

Additional details on fair value changes of derivative contracts and embedded derivative have been disclosed in note 23.

(s) Derivatives foreign exchange forward contracts

As of December 31, 2011, the Company held non-deliverable forward contracts with a bank with total notional amount of US$1,000 to hedge its RMB exposures for operating costs in the normal courses of business. The aggregate forward gains from these contracts were included in selling, general and administrative expenses which amounted to US$53, US$11 and US$nil for the years ended December 31, 2011, 2010 and 2009 respectively.

(t) Stock-based compensation

The Company measures the costs of services received in exchange for share-based compensation at the grant date fair values of the awards. The cost is recognized as an expense, net of estimated forfeitures, over the requisite service period related to such awards, which is generally the vesting period. The Company recognizes share-based compensation expense for share awards granted to employees using the straight-line method. The Company uses the Black-Scholes valuation model to determine the fair values of the options granted.

Forfeitures are estimated at the time of grant and revised, if necessary, in the subsequent periods if actual forfeitures differ from initial estimates. Forfeiture rate is estimated based on historical and future expectations of employee turnover and are adjusted to reflect future changes in circumstances and facts, if any.

Edgar Filing: LJ INTERNATIONAL INC - Form 20-F

As of December 31, 2011, the Company has four stock-based employee compensation plans, details of which are set out in note 16(a).

Table of Contents2. SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES (Continued)(u) Income taxes*

Income taxes are accounted for under the asset and liability method. Deferred tax assets and liabilities are recognized for the future tax consequences attributable to differences between the financial statement carrying amounts of existing assets and liabilities and their respective tax bases and operating loss and tax credit carry forwards. Deferred tax assets and liabilities are measured using enacted tax rates expected to apply to taxable income in the years in which those temporary differences are expected to be recovered or settled. The effect on deferred tax assets and liabilities of a change in tax rates is recognized in income in the period that includes the enactment date. The Company records a valuation allowance against deferred tax assets that it determines to be more-likely-than-not that some portion or all of the deferred tax assets will not be realized.

The Company only recognizes tax benefits related to uncertain tax positions when such positions are more likely than not of being sustained upon examination. For such positions, the amount of tax benefit that the Company recognizes is the largest amount of tax benefit that is more than fifty percent likely of being sustained upon the ultimate settlement of such uncertain position. The Company records interest and penalties as a component of income tax expense.

(v) Foreign currencies

The functional currency of the Company and its subsidiaries in the BVI is United States dollars (US$), while the functional currency of its subsidiaries in Hong Kong of the manufacturing and wholesale segment is US dollars, its subsidiaries in Hong Kong of the retail segment is Hong Kong dollars, and the functional currency of all subsidiaries in the PRC is Renminbi. The reporting currency of the Company is US$. Transactions denominated in currencies other than US dollars are translated into US dollars at the exchange rate prevailing at the dates of transactions. Foreign currency translation gains and losses are included in the consolidated statement of income. The assets and liabilities of the Company's subsidiaries whose functional currencies are other than US dollars, are translated at the exchange rates in effect at the balance sheets date and related revenue and expenses are translated at average exchange rates during the year. Translation adjustments are reported as a component of accumulated other comprehensive income (loss).

The aggregate foreign exchange transaction gains (losses) and translation gain (loss) included in determining net income were US$1,844, US$337 and (US$691) for the years ended December 31, 2011, 2010 and 2009 respectively.

(w) Cash and cash equivalents and restricted cash

Cash and cash equivalents consist of cash on hand and highly liquid short-term deposits which are unrestricted as to withdrawal and use, and have original maturities of three months or less.

Restricted cash are deposits that are restricted as to withdrawal, and are pledged as securities for the Company's banking facilities. The restricted cash and deposits as of December 31, 2011 and 2010 will be generally released by the bank in the next 12 months.

(x) Related parties

Parties are considered to be related if one party has the ability, directly or indirectly, to control the other party, or exercise significant influence over the other party in making financial and operating decisions. Parties are also considered to be related if they are the principal owners of the Company and members of their immediate families, or if they are affiliates or equity investees of the Company.

Table of Contents2. SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES (Continued)(y) Dividends*

The Directors of the Company have never declared or paid any cash dividends on the Company's capital stock and do not anticipate paying cash dividends in the foreseeable future. The ability to pay dividends depends upon receipt of dividends or other payments from subsidiaries and other holdings and investments. In addition, the operating subsidiaries from time to time may be subject to restrictions on their ability to make distributions to the Company, including as a result of restrictive covenants in loan agreements, restrictions on the conversion of local currency into US dollars or other currencies and other regulatory restrictions. Currently, none of the subsidiaries has such restriction during the periods presented except for the covenants as set out in note 10 to the financial statements.

(z) Comprehensive income

Noncontrolling interest is the portion of equity (net assets) in a subsidiary not attributable, directly or indirectly, to the Company. Noncontrolling interests is recognized as equity in the consolidated balance sheets, and net income (loss) attributable to noncontrolling interests is included as consolidated net income of the Company.

(ab) Store closure costs

The store closure costs represent costs associated with the closure of retail stores which is the ongoing and continuous activities of the Company to consolidate its retail stores. Stores closure costs relate to the write-down of store renovation work capitalized as leasehold improvements included in selling, general and administrative expenses, and such costs are in the amount of US$113, US$25 and US$137 for the years ended December 31, 2011, 2010 and 2009 respectively. There were no costs related to termination severance to employees or early termination of lease contracts for the years ended December 31, 2011, 2010 and 2009.

(ac) Investments in life insurance contracts

The Company purchased key man insurance for two of its senior executives. An investment in a life insurance contract is reported as an asset. The Company determines the amount that could be realized under the life insurance contract assuming the surrender of an individual-life by individual-life policy. Any amount that ultimately would be realized by the Company as the policyholder upon the assumed surrender of the final policy is included in the amount that could be realized under the insurance contract. An asset representing an investment in a life insurance contract shall be measured subsequently at the amount that could be realized under the insurance contract as at the reporting date. The death benefit will not be realized before the actual insured event happens. The change in cash surrender or contract value during the period is an adjustment of premiums paid in determining the expense or income to be recognized under the contract for the period. Cash receipts and cash disbursements related to key man insurance is classified as investing activities in the statement of cash flows. (ad) Recent changes in accounting standards

In May 2011, the FASB issued an authoritative pronouncement on fair value measurement. The guidance is the result of joint efforts by the FASB and IASB to develop a single, converged fair value framework. The guidance is largely consistent with existing fair value measurement principles in U.S. GAAP. The guidance expands the existing disclosure requirements for fair value measurements and makes other amendments, mainly including:

- a. Highest-and-best-use and valuation-premise concepts for nonfinancial assets – the guidance indicates that the highest-and-best-use and valuation-premise concepts only apply to measuring the fair value of nonfinancial assets.
- b. Application to financial assets and financial liabilities with offsetting positions in market risks or counterparty credit risk – the guidance permits an exception to fair value measurement principles for financial assets and financial liabilities (and derivatives) with offsetting positions in market risks or counterparty credit risk when several criteria are met. When the criteria are met, an entity can measure the fair value of the net risk position.

- c. Premiums or discounts in fair value measure – the guidance states that premiums or discounts that reflect size as a characteristic of the reporting entity's holding (specifically, a blockage factor that adjusts the quoted price of an asset or a liability because the market's normal daily trading volume is not sufficient to absorb the quantity held by the entity etc.) rather than as a characteristic of the asset or liability (for example, a control premium when measuring the fair value of a controlling interest) are not permitted in a fair value measurement.
- d. Fair value of an instrument classified in a reporting entity's shareholders' equity – the guidance prescribes a model for measuring the fair value of an instrument classified in shareholders' equity; this model is consistent with the guidance on measuring the fair value of liabilities.
- e. Disclosures about fair value measurements – the guidance expands disclosure requirements, particularly for Level 3 inputs. Required disclosures include:

For fair value measurements categorized in level 3 of the fair value hierarchy: (1) a quantitative disclosure of the unobservable inputs and assumptions used in the measurement, (2) a description of the valuation process in place (e.g., how the entity decides its valuation policies and procedures, as well as changes in its analyses of fair value measurements, from period to period), and (3) a narrative description of the sensitivity of the fair value to changes in unobservable inputs and interrelationships between those inputs.

The level in the fair value hierarchy of items that are not measured at fair value in the statement of financial position but whose fair value must be disclosed.

The guidance is to be applied prospectively and effective for interim and annual periods beginning after December 15, 2011, for public entities. Early application by public entities is not permitted. The Company is in the process of evaluating the effect of adoption of this pronouncement.

In June 2011, the FASB issued an authoritative pronouncement, Accounting Standards Update (ASU) 2011-05, to allow an entity the option to present the total of comprehensive income, the components of net income, and the components of other comprehensive income either in a single continuous statement of comprehensive income or in two separate but consecutive statements. In both choices, an entity is required to present each component of net income along with total net income, each component of other comprehensive income along with a total for other comprehensive income, and a total amount for comprehensive income. The guidance eliminates the option to present the components of other comprehensive income as part of the statement of changes in shareholders' equity. Regardless of whether an entity chooses to present comprehensive income in a single continuous statement or in two separate but consecutive statements, the entity is required to present on the face of the financial statements reclassification adjustments for items that are reclassified from other comprehensive income to net income in the statement(s) where the components of net income and the components of other comprehensive income are presented. These amendments do not change the items that must be reported in other comprehensive income or when an item of other comprehensive income must be reclassified to net income. The guidance should be applied retrospectively. For public entities, the amendments are effective for fiscal years and interim periods within those years, beginning after December 15, 2011. Early adoption is permitted. The Company is in the process of evaluating the effect of adoption of this pronouncement. In December 2011, the FASB issued a further authoritative pronouncement, ASU2011-12, Deferral of the Effective Date for Amendments to the Presentation of Reclassification of Items Out of Accumulated Other Comprehensive Income in ASU2011-05. The amendments supersede changes to those paragraphs in Update 2011-05 that pertain to how, when, and where reclassification adjustments are presented. The amendments in this Update are effective for public entities for fiscal years, and interim periods within those years, beginning after December 15, 2011. The Company does not expect this update to have a material impact on its financial position, results of operations or cash flows as the impact only relate to presentation of the financial statements.

In September 2011, the FASB issued an authoritative pronouncement, which simplifies how entities test goodwill for impairment. Under the amendments in this update, an entity has the option to first assess qualitative factors to determine whether the existence of events or circumstances leads the entity to determine that it is more likely than not that the fair value of a reporting unit is less than its carrying amount. If after assessing the totality of events or circumstances, an entity determines that it is not more likely than not that the fair value of the reporting unit is less than its carrying amount, then performing the two-step impairment test is unnecessary. If the entity concludes otherwise, then it is required to test goodwill for impairment under the two-step process. The amendments are effective for annual and interim goodwill impairment tests performed for fiscal years beginning after December 15, 2011 and early adoption is permitted. The Company does not expect this update to have a material impact on its financial position, results of operations or cash flows.

In December 2011, the FASB issued an authoritative pronouncement on disclosures about offsetting assets and liabilities. Under this pronouncement, entities are required to disclose both gross information and net information about both instruments and transactions eligible for offset in the statement of financial position and instruments and transactions subject to an agreement similar to a master netting arrangement. This scope would include derivatives, sale and repurchase agreements and reverse sale and repurchase agreements, and securities borrowing and securities lending arrangements. An entity is required to apply the amendments for annual reporting periods beginning on or after January 1, 2013, and interim periods within those annual periods. An entity should provide the disclosures required by those amendments retrospectively for all comparative periods presented. The Company is in the process of evaluating the effect of adoption of this pronouncement.

(ae) Out-of-Period Adjustments and reclassifications

Subsequent to the filing of the annual report on Form 20-F for the year ended December 31, 2010, the Company identified errors in the consolidated financial statements for fiscal 2010, primarily related to the calculations of the costs of finished goods, eliminations of unrealized profits between intercompany sales, timing of recognition of sales and retail store closure costs in the appropriate period, understatement of deferred income, value added taxes payables and deferred tax assets. As a result of these errors, net income was overstated by $569 in 2010. We evaluated these errors in relation to the current fiscal year, which is when they were corrected, as well as the period in which they originated. Management concluded that these errors are immaterial to both the fiscal 2011 and 2010 consolidated financial statements.

In addition, the Company has corrected the classification of certain costs between costs of goods sold, selling, general and administrative expenses, and depreciation on the consolidated statement of income, refer to note 24 for details.

3. OPERATING RISKS*(a) Concentrations of credit risks*

Details of major customers from which the Company derived operating revenue are shown in note 21(a).

Credit risk represents the loss that would be recognized at the reporting date if counterparties failed to perform as contracted. Concentrations of credit risk (whether on or off balance sheets) that arise from financial instruments exist for groups of customers or counterparties when there are similar economic characteristics that would cause their ability to meet contractual obligations to be similarly affected by changes in economic or other conditions. The major concentration of credit risk arises from the Company's receivables. Even though the Company does have concentration of credit risks with its major customers in the manufacture and wholesale segment, it does not consider itself to be exposed to significant credit risk with regards to collection because trade credit insurance are purchased to cover the collection risks of the related receivables. Historical losses have not been significant.

Table of Contents

(b) Country risks

The Company may also be exposed to certain risks as a result of its manufacturing operations being located in the PRC and its properties held for lease in Hong Kong which are not typically associated with companies operating in North America and Western Europe. These include risks associated with, among others, the political, economic and legal environments and foreign currency exchange. The Company's results may be adversely affected by changes in the political and social conditions in the PRC, and by changes in governmental policies with respect to laws and regulations, anti-inflationary measures, currency conversion and remittance abroad, and rates and methods of taxation, among other things. The Company's management believe these risks not to be significant. There can be no assurance, however, that changes in political, social and other conditions will not result in any adverse impact.

Table of Contents3. OPERATING RISKS (Continued)(c) Cash and time deposits*

The Company maintains majority of its cash balances, restricted cash and investments in time deposits with various banks and financial institutions in Hong Kong and in the PRC. In line with local practice, such amounts are not insured or otherwise protected should the financial institutions be unable to meet their liabilities. The credit risk on these funds is considered to be limited because the counterparties are regularly assessed by the management of the Company and deemed to be creditworthy institutions. There has been no history of credit losses.

On March 16, 2007, the National People's Congress of China enacted the PRC Enterprise Income Tax Law (the "New Tax Law"), under which foreign invested enterprises (the "FIEs") and domestic companies would be subject to enterprise income tax at a uniform rate of 25%. There will be a five-year transition period for FIEs, during which they are allowed to continue to enjoy their existing preferential tax treatments. Preferential tax treatments will continue to be granted to entities which conduct businesses in certain encouraged sectors and to entities otherwise classified as "high and new technology enterprises", whether FIEs or domestic enterprises. The new tax rate has become effective on January 1, 2008. On December 6, 2007, the State Council of the PRC issued New Enterprise Income Tax Implementation Regulations on the New Taxation Law ("New EIT Implementation Regulations"). The New Tax Law and New EIT Implementation Regulations have changed the tax rate from 15% to 18%, 20%, 22%, 24% and 25% for the years ending December 31, 2008, 2009, 2010, 2011 and 2012 respectively for Shenzhen PRC subsidiaries. On December 26, 2007, the State Council issued the Notice of the State Council Concerning Implementation of Transitional Rules for Enterprise Income Tax Incentives ("Circular 39").

The deferred tax balance has been adjusted to reflect the tax rates that are expected to apply.

Uncertain tax positions

The Company has made its assessment of the level of tax authority for each tax position (including the potential application of interest and penalties) based on the technical merits, and has measured the unrecognized tax benefits associated with the tax positions. Based on its evaluation, the Company determined that no unrecognized tax benefits, including interest and penalties, were required as of January 1, 2007 when it first implemented its assessment and recognition of uncertain tax positions. It has no additional material uncertain tax positions as of December 31, 2011 and 2010 or unrecognized tax benefit which would favorably affect the effective income tax rate in future periods. The Company does not anticipate any significant increases or decreases to its assessment for unrecognized tax benefits within the next twelve months.

In general, the Hong Kong and PRC tax authorities have up to six and five years respectively to conduct examinations of the Company's tax filings. Accordingly, the Hong Kong subsidiaries' financial years 2006 to 2011 are subject to examination and assessment, except where protective assessments have been issued by the Hong Kong tax authorities before the six year time limit and the assessments are under objection, in which case the assessments are still subject to adjustments. The PRC subsidiaries' tax years 2007-2010 remain open to examination by the PRC tax jurisdictions.

The Hong Kong Inland Revenue Department (the IRD) has audited the profits tax of Lorenzo Jewelry Limited (LJHK) for the years of assessment 2001/02 to 2004/05. Since 2008, various inquiries letters were issued to LJHK and an interview was conducted with the management of LJHK to obtain additional information on its profits tax returns and financial results. In consequence of the tax audit, LJHK's profits tax returns for the fiscal years 2001 to 2011 remain subject to examination by the IRD.

In response to the tax audit, the Company has conducted internal investigations and engaged tax specialists to consult on the tax exposures, and has concluded that there is no additional tax exposure for the Company based on the technical merits of the tax positions taken in LJHK's profits tax returns, and it is more likely than not to be sustained upon examination. Accordingly, no unrecognized tax benefits were recorded.

According to PRC Tax Administration and Collection Law, the statute of limitations is three years if the underpayment of taxes is due to computational errors made by the taxpayer or withholding agent. The statute of limitations will be extended five years under special circumstances, which are not clearly defined, but an underpayment of tax liability exceeding RMB0.1 million (approximate US$16) is specifically listed as a special circumstance. In the case of a related party transaction, the statute of limitations is 10 years. There is no statute of limitations in the case of tax evasion.

The Company did not provide for deferred income taxes and foreign withholding taxes on the undistributed earnings of foreign subsidiaries as of December 31, 2010 and 2011 on the basis of its intent to permanently reinvest foreign subsidiaries' earnings. If these foreign earnings were to be repatriated in the future, the related tax liability may be reduced by any foreign income taxes previously paid on these earnings.

The cumulative amount of tax loss carried forward was US$8,779, and US$6,371, as of December 31, 2011 and 2010, respectively, for the Company's certain subsidiaries in Hong Kong and the PRC. The PRC net operating loss will expire beginning 2015, while the losses could be carried forward indefinitely in Hong Kong.

In assessing the realizability of deferred tax assets, management considers whether it is more likely than not that some portion or all of the deferred tax assets in relation to the tax loss carried forward will not be realized. The ultimate realization of deferred tax assets is dependent upon the generation of future taxable income during the periods in which those temporary differences become deductible.

Based on the history of the Company's profitability, management believes that it is more likely than not that the Company will realize the benefits of the deferred tax assets of US$2,191 and US$111, net of valuation allowances as of December 31, 2011 and 2010.

(b) Legal Proceedings

The Company is exposed to certain asserted and unasserted potential claims. There can be no assurance that, with respect to potential claims made against the Company, the Company could resolve such claims under terms and conditions that would not have a material effect on its business, its liquidity or financial results. Periodically the Company reviews the status of each significant matter and assesses its potential financial exposure. An estimated loss from a loss contingency is accrued by a charge to income if information available before the financial statements are issued or are available to be issued indicates that it is probable that a liability had been incurred at the date of the financial statements, and the amount of loss can be reasonably estimated. Legal proceedings are subject to uncertainties, and the outcomes are difficult to predict. Because of such uncertainties, accruals are based only on the best information available at the time. As additional information becomes available, the Company reassesses the potential liability related to pending claims and litigation and may revise estimate. Presently, no accrual has been estimated for potential losses that may or may not arise from the current lawsuits in which the Company is involved.

The anti-dilutive provisions contained in the warrant agreements provides that the exercise price of the outstanding warrants is subject to adjustment when the Company issues common stock in certain circumstances at a price lower than the exercise price of the warrants. Subsequent to the private placement completed in October 2010 (note 14(a)(ii)), the outstanding warrants of 329,334, which represents the warrants hold by both the investors and the placement agent, at exercise price of US$4.5 per share was adjusted to 456,000 at exercise price of US$3.25 per share.

- (ii) In October 2010, in connection of the issuance of a number of common shares of the Company to some institutional investors (note 14(a)(ii)), ENZO also issued warrants to these investors to purchase a number of shares of common stock of ENZO which equal to 4.25% of the outstanding equity of ENZO when the market valuation of ENZO upon completion of the offering and valued at the public offering price of ENZO common stock is equal to or greater than US$300 million. The exercise price is a price per share which is determined as of the share determination time equal to the quotient determined by dividing the holder's pro rata portion of US$12.75 million by the share quantity.

ENZO has also issued warrants to the placement agent of the private placement to purchase a number of shares of common stock of ENZO which equal to 2.75% of the outstanding equity of ENZO when the market valuation of ENZO upon completion of the offering and valued at the public offering price of ENZO common stock is equal to or greater than US$300 million. The warrants issued to the placement agent are identical to the warrants issued to the investors. The exercise price is a price per share which is determined as of the share determination time equal to the quotient determined by US$8.25 million by the share quantity.

The warrants expire at the earlier of (i) October 26, 2014 or (ii) the business day immediately preceding an initial public offering of ENZO.

The fair value of warrants was valued using the Black-Scholes option pricing model, with the assistance of an independent valuation firm. The fair value of the warrants was determined to be insignificant at issuance date and subsequently at the end of each reporting period presented. The Company allocated the aggregate proceeds from the private placement between common stock and the underlying warrants, with the common share proceeds included in additional paid in capital.

- (iii) On May 3, 2011, ENZO issued 359,826 redeemable preferred shares to some institutional investors, to fund expenditures for new store openings, marketing expenses and general working capital related to the expansion of its retail business in the PRC (note 17). As part of the transaction, ENZO also issued some warrants to these institutional investors. The warrants are exercisable any time after the issuance date, in whole or in part, with the exercise price per share being the quotient determined by dividing the holders' pro rata portion of US$25,875 by holders' pro rata portion of 10.35% of the common stock deemed outstanding of ENZO on a fully diluted basis, on the date of the exercise note. The exercise price of the warrants shall be adjusted by certain dilutive events of ENZO, such as stock splits, stock dividends, recapitalization, or the declaration of dividends or assets by way of return of capital.

The warrants will expire in forty-eight months after the issuance date, or if an initial public offering of ENZO (ENZO IPO) occurs prior to such date, then the expiry date will be eighteen months following the ENZO IPO; provided that if the ENZO IPO has not occurred by such forty-eight month date, then the expiration date shall automatically be extended by another 12 months or such other time as may be agreed to in writing by the warrant holders. If the ENZO IPO occurs during the extension period, the extension period will be automatically extended to eighteenth month after the date of the ENZO IPO.

The warrants holders can also elect to exercise the flip-over option to convert the warrants into the common shares of the Company, and the share quantity to be converted into shall be the quotient of 10.35 over 28.27, multiple by the total percentage of the Company's issued and outstanding share capital that the holders of all the ENZO Preferred Shares would be entitled to receive at the relevant time of determination in the event that a Flip Option (note 17) is exercised at such time in respect of all the ENZO Preferred Shares issued. In the event that a flip-over option is exercised in respect of any warrant, the expiration date of such warrants will be automatically amended to reflect the date falling 18 months after the flip-over option is exercised in respect of such warrants.

The warrant holders are not entitled to vote or receive dividends from ENZO.

The warrants were recorded as liabilities as the number of shares of ENZO to be obtained is variable, and initially recorded at fair value at issuance date. The fair value of the warrants was US$3.03 million and US$2.07 million at the time of issuance and as of December 31, 2011, respectively. Changes in fair value of the warrants in each reporting period are included in the consolidated statement of operations. A gain of US$954 from the change in fair value of the warrants was recognized in the consolidated statement of operations during the year ended December 31, 2011 (note 23).

(iii) (Continued)

The fair value of the warrants was determined by adopting the Monte Carlo simulation valuation methodology, with the assistance of an independent valuation firm, using the following assumptions:

Assumptions for ENZO	Valuation as of May 3, 2011	Valuation as of December 31, 2011
Underlying asset value	$ 132,100	$ 142,300
Risk free rate	0.95%	0.31%
Volatility of the warrant	35.54%	33.93%
% of share of the Company upon the exercise of flip-over option of the warrant	9.69	9.69

When estimating the fair values of the underlying asset value of ENZO as of the issuance date, the Company first determined its enterprise value by means of the discounted cash flow method. The discounted cash flow derived by management considered the ENZO's future business plan, specific business and financial risks, the stage of development of the ENZO's operations and economic and competitive elements affecting the ENZO's business, industry and market. Volatility is the adjusted annualized standard deviation of the continuously compounded rates of daily return on the daily adjusted share price, with the adoption of the average of volatilities of the comparable companies of ENZO. Risk free rate used is based on the corresponding yield to maturity of respective US Sovereign Strips as at the valuation dates.

15. EMPLOYEE RETIREMENT BENEFIT PLANS

The 5% monthly contribution of the Company and the employees are subject to a cap of US$0.128 per month and thereafter contributions are voluntary. When employees leave the MPF scheme prior to vesting fully in voluntary contributions, the contributions payable by the Company are reduced by the amount of forfeited contributions.

The amount of forfeitures in respect of the MPF scheme, which was available to reduce the Company's contribution payable, for the year ended December 31, 2011, 2010 and 2009 was US$10, US$12 and US$12 respectively.

These companies are required to accrue for these benefits based on certain percentages of the employees' salaries in accordance with the relevant regulations, and to make contributions to the state-sponsored pension and medical plans out of the amounts accrued for medical and pension benefits. The state-sponsored retirement plan will be responsible for the entire pension obligations for the actual pension payments or post-retirement benefits beyond the annual contributions.

The holders of the ENZO Preferred Shares have various rights and preferences as follows:

Conversion

The ENZO Preferred Shares are voluntary convertible into ordinary shares of ENZO on a one-to-one basis at any time after the date of issuance, without payment of any additional consideration. All outstanding ENZO Preferred Shares shall be automatically converted into fully paid ordinary shares of ENZO immediately upon the completion of an initial public offering of the ordinary shares of ENZO, on the main board of the Stock Exchange of Hong Kong or another Asian or international stock exchange, with an value of ENZO at no less than US$300 million (the Qualified IPO). The conversion price for both the voluntary or automatic conversion is adjusted for certain dilutive events, including but not limited to share split, subdivision, capital reorganization, reclassification, recapitalization, merger, upon issuance of additional shares of ENZO at less than the original conversion price, or other dilutive issuances of shares.

The ENZO Preferred Shares are redeemable any time after a redemption event, at the option of the holders at an amount equal to the original contribution plus 22% internal rate of return per annum from preferred shares issuance date to redemption date, and all declared but unpaid dividends. A redemption event ("Redemption Event") includes: ENZO has not completed a Qualified IPO on or before the 3rd anniversary of the completion date (May 3, 2014), the Company materially breaches any transaction documents, and upon any change of control.

Flip-over option

In the event that a Qualified IPO has not occurred by May 3, 2014, each preferred shareholder can choose to cause ENZO to redeem the preferred shares in accordance with the redemption provisions set out above, or exchange the ENZO Preferred Shares into common shares of the Company through a flip-over option (the "Flip Option"). The exchange ratio of the Flip Option is the greater of:

- (a) 33.80 newly issued common shares of the Company (as adjusted for any share split, dividends, or other dilutive events occurring after the completion date of the ENZO Preferred Shares); and

- (b) based on the following formula at the time of determination:

(the number of ordinary shares issuable upon conversion of a preferred shares / the aggregate number of ordinary shares issued and outstanding) x (retail profit of ENZO / total profit of the Company)

The retail profits of ENZO and total profit of the Company are determined as the net operating profit, on a consolidated basis based on the higher of (i) the audited consolidated financial statements for the fiscal year immediately preceding the date of determination, and (ii) the annualized consolidated financial statements for the immediately preceding two quarters; provided that total profits shall be deemed as one cent should actual numbers be lower than one cent, and the ratio of retail profits over total profits shall be capped at a maximum 1.2.

Liquidation Preference

Upon any liquidation events, the holders of the ENZO Preferred Shares are to be paid out of the assets of ENZO available for distribution to its members before any payment shall be made to the holders of ordinary shares, an amount per share equal to the aggregate amount of the original contribution, plus 22% internal rate of return per annum from completion date to redemption date, and all declared but unpaid dividends.

Dividends and voting rights

ENZO shall not declare, pay or set aside any dividends on shares of any other class or series of capital stock of the ENZO unless the holders of the ENZO Preferred Shares then outstanding shall first or simultaneously receive, a dividend on each outstanding preferred share in an amount such holder will have received as if that preferred share has been converted into an ordinary share at the time such dividend is declared.

The preferred shareholders are entitled to voting together with ordinary shareholders of ENZO as a single class, and are entitled to the number of voting right on an as-if converted basis.

Transferability

Fully or partly paid up preferred shares are at all times fully transferable.

As part of the transaction and with at no additional considerations, ENZO Preferred Shareholders are also granted warrants to acquire up to 10.35% of additional equity interest of ENZO. Please refer to note 14(b)(iii) for details.

No cash dividends were declared by ENZO on the preferred shares for the year ended December 31, 2011.

The ENZO Preferred Shares were classified as mezzanine equity of the Company as these preferred shares can be redeemed at the option of the holders any time after a Redemption Event, which is outside the control of the Company. The Company recorded the initial carrying amount of the ENZO Preferred Shares at the date of issuance at US$35.6 million, which was the total proceed from the issuance of US$41.38 million net of issuance costs of US$1.77 million, and after the bifurcations of the Flip Option with fair value of US$980 and the warrants with fair value of US$3.03 million at issuance date as disclosed in note 14(iii).

The ENZO Preferred Shares have no beneficial conversion features as the conversion price is lower than the fair value of the ordinary shares of ENZO at the commitment date of May 3, 2011.

The carrying amount of the ENZO Preferred Shares were subsequently accredited to the redemption value, based on the effective interest method, over the period from the issuance date to the earliest redemption date of May 3, 2014, with the charges recorded as deemed dividends to ENZO preferred shareholders in retained earnings. The change in fair value of US$969 has been recorded in earnings (note 23).

The fair value of the Flip Option was determined by adopting the Monte Carlo simulation valuation methodology, with the assistance of an independent valuation firm, using the following assumptions:

	Valuation as of May 3, 2011	December 31, 2011
Shares of the Company
Underlying asset value	$ 3.59	$ 1.92

Number of share issued upon exercise of the Flip Option	12,163,018	12,163,018
