Exelon and Public Service Enterprise Group agree to historic merger

Exelon and PSEG announced today that they have entered into a merger agreement to combine to create Exelon Electric & Gas, the nation's largest utility. The merger will create a combined company with total assets of approximately $79 billion serving three major metropolitan areas, more than 7 million retail electric customers in Illinois, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, and more than 2 million gas customers in Pennsylvania and New Jersey. The combination will create an extraordinary utility system with enhanced safety, reliability and efficiency.

Jim Ferland, chairman, president and CEO of PSEG said, "This is a truly unique opportunity for two major companies. Exelon is the foremost leader in the nuclear generation business and will have an immediate positive impact on our operations. By contrast, we are highly regarded for our expertise in transmission and distribution operations and retail auctions, which will be a valuable addition to Exelon's business."

Ferland added that John Rowe, chairman, president and CEO of Exelon, "will bring a wealth of executive experience and success to the new and larger organization. He is a good, strong leader who understands how to accomplish what we both envision: the creation of the ideal business model for the utility industry. Together with the talented employees of both companies, John will build a new business that will grow shareholder value and serve all our constituencies well."

The merger is conditioned, among other things, upon the approvals by the shareholders of both companies and a number of regulatory approvals or reviews by federal and state energy authorities. This kind of regulatory process is not uncommon for a merger of this nature and both companies expect regulators to view the merger positively. It is expected that the transaction will close in 12-15 months. In addition, the two companies have entered into a nuclear operating services contract starting in early 2005 whereby Exelon will provide assistance to PSEG at PSEG's nuclear facilities.
