Preliminary Proxy, Recommendation and Put Right O&A

Why is Partners filing a preliminary proxy now, before the Sprint-Nextel merger has closed and before their shareholders have even voted on the transaction?

By filing the proxy now, we are seeking to facilitate the Special Meeting mechanics by putting ourselves in a position to organize a meeting in a timely fashion in the event we receive a request for such a meeting from at least 20% of our Class A shareholders following the close of the Sprint-Nextel merger.

When do you expect to have the Special Meeting?

We would not call a Special Meeting until we receive a request for such a meeting from at least 20% of our Class A shareholders after the close of the Sprint-Nextel merger. Today's filing is just a preliminary proxy so it is too early to predict with certainty when we will be able to hold the meeting.

Why did Partners form a special committee to make a recommendation regarding the put right?

A special committee of Nextel Partners' Board of Directors was formed in order to exclude those directors who also serve on Nextel Communications' Board or are consultants to Nextel Communications, so as to avoid any potential conflict. This is a significant decision about our company's future and this committee will help ensure that both our shareholders' and partners' (employees') interests are well served.

Why did the special committee recommend that shareholders vote in favor of exercising the put right?

The special committee believes the terms of the put right and the current economic environment and M&A landscape, particularly in the telecommunications sector, make this an opportune time to exercise the put right and seek to obtain an attractive value for our Class A stockholders.

Nextel Communications has a significant stake in Nextel Partners. Is it involved in the put decision?

Nextel Communications is not involved except in its capacity as a buyer in the event that the put right is exercised. Only Class A shareholders are eligible to vote on the put right. Nextel Communications only owns Class B common stock so they would not be eligible to vote in the put decision.

What percentage of shareholders must vote in order to sell the company?

A special meeting will be called if holders of at least 20% of Nextel Partners' Class A common stock request a vote. If more than 50% of Nextel Partners' Class A common shares represented at the meeting are voted in favor of exercising the put right, then Nextel Communications will be obligated to purchase all outstanding Class A shares of Nextel Partners, and holders of Class A shares will be obligated to sell their shares to Nextel Communications, at a price to be determined through an appraisal process.

What will happen if shareholders vote in favor of the put option?

If more than 50% of Nextel Partners Class A common shares at the meeting are voted in favor of exercising the put option, Nextel Communications is obligated to purchase all outstanding Class A shares of Nextel Partners, and holders of Class A shares are obligated to sell their shares to Nextel Communications, at a price to be determined by an appraisal process.

Do you believe that shareholders will exercise the put option?

We cannot speculate on how shareholders might vote.

What will happen if the put option is not exercised? Would Nextel Partners continue as an independent company?

If more than 50% of Partners' Class A common shares represented at the meeting do not vote in favor of exercising the put, then the shareholders may vote to adjourn the meeting to a later date, not more than 545 days after the closing of the Sprint-Nextel merger, to vote again on whether to exercise the put. If the put option is not exercised within 545 days after the closing of the Sprint-Nextel merger, then Nextel Communications would not be obligated to purchase Nextel Partners and Nextel Partners would continue as an independent company subject to any future put or call rights.

Will each shareholder's vote count the same?

If a special meeting is called, each share of Class A common stock will have one vote on whether or not to exercise the put right. The decision will be determined by the majority of Class A common shares represented at the meeting.

How many Class A shareholders are there? What percentage of your overall shareholders do they make up?

As of March 31, 2005 we had 183.625 million Class A shares outstanding which represented 68.45% of total outstanding shares and 56.26% of total equity.

What percentage of Class A shares are owned by your senior management team?

Approximately 2.1% as of March 31, 2005.

Since the put right is an obligation of Nextel Communications, does the fact that they are being acquired by Sprint impact Nextel Partners shareholders' ability to exercise the put?

No. To the contrary, the closing of the Sprint-Nextel Communications merger is the event that will allow 20% of our shareholders to request a special meeting at which Class A shareholders will vote on whether or not to exercise the put right.
