Schering-Plough Corporation

Additional Soliciting Material Concerning Proposal Seven

A number of Schering-Plough shareholders have discussed Proposal Seven with us. Since we are hearing the same concerns from many shareholders, we are providing this additional information to assist shareholders in deciding how to vote on Proposal Seven.

The proposal asks the Board adopt a simple majority vote requirement and make it applicable to the greatest number of governance issues practicable. In the supporting statement to the proposal, the proponent discusses certain governance issues where no shareholder vote is required, including Committee Chair assignments and director independence, as well as certain 80% vote requirements found in the governing documents.

The Company wishes to be responsive to shareholder concerns about the 80% vote requirements in its governing documents. To address these concerns the Company has committed to hire an independent firm to interview shareholders about their views on each of the current requirements for greater than a majority vote in the Company's certificate of incorporation and bylaws. The results of the interviews will be provided to the Nominating and Corporate Governance Committee. The Chairman of the Nominating and Corporate Governance Committee has agreed that the Committee will consider the survey results in formulating recommendations for the agenda for the 2007 annual meeting of shareholders. She and the Chairman of the Board have agreed these matters will also be discussed with the full Board in their consideration of the agenda for the 2007 annual meeting of shareholders. The results of the survey will also be described in the proxy statement for the 2007 annual meeting of shareholders.

The Company has provided the assurances in the above paragraph because Proposal Seven addresses broader topics than the 80% vote requirement. We are not hearing from any shareholders, other than the proponent, that there is an interest in adding a majority shareholder vote requirement on other issues – these other issues, like the need to make director independence assessments and the need to change Committee chair assignments, apply frequently throughout the year.

We are hearing from shareholders that they wish to provide feedback on the 80% requirement but not support the other issues raised by Proposal Seven. We have committed to the survey and to consider the issue for the 2007 ballot in response.

Any shareholder wishing to provide feedback on survey design may contact the Vice President-Investor Relations or the Corporate Secretary and Vice President-Corporate Governance at the Company's headquarters.
