On March 13, 2015, Integrys Energy Group, Inc. (the “Company”) notified its employees of an update on Wisconsin Energy Group’s settlement plans in Michigan through email and on the Company’s internal employee website. The content of the communication was as follows:

Subject: Important update on WEC’s Michigan settlement plans

Good morning:

Michigan Governor Rick Snyder has announced a major development in the efforts to develop a long-term global solution for electric reliability for the Upper Peninsula. The plan that considered selling our M&M gas and electricity assets to UPPCO is no longer under consideration.

WEC President Allen Leverett provided a summary to employees at the Presque Isle Power Plant (PIPP) this morning. I have borrowed from it below. The solution announced today includes the following elements:

- PIPP and the electric distribution assets of We Energies and Wisconsin Public Service in Michigan will be retained by We Energies. These assets will not be sold to UPPCO as previously planned.
- The Empire and Tilden mines have entered into a long-term contract to purchase electric power from We Energies.
- Wisconsin Energy has expressed a willingness to participate as an investor in the construction of a new generation plant in the UP of Michigan and/or purchase power from it. This would ultimately allow for the eventual retirement of PIPP.
- Wisconsin Energy would potentially create a separate utility subsidiary that would be a Michigan-only utility. This subsidiary would be the owner of the electric distribution assets of We Energies and Wisconsin Public Service in Michigan and be regulated solely by the Michigan Public Service Commission. If formed, the electric customers of We Energies and Wisconsin Public Service in Michigan would take service from this utility. This utility would remain part of the WEC Energy Group.

Allen expressed his belief, which I share, that this solution has all of the same benefits as the previous approach – along with a number of others.

I am grateful to the M&M employees and all of you for your patience as this has evolved, and for the continued focus on safe, reliable delivery of gas and electricity to our customers, especially amid the uncertainty around this plan.

/s/ Charlie Schrock
